USC: AMERICA'S NO. 1 BOWL TEAM

USC — currently on a four-game bowl winning streak — is the No. 1 bowl team in the country.

The Trojans have both the most wins (17) and highest winning percentage (.738) of any team in history. (To qualify for ranking in percentage, a team must have played in 10 bowls.)

USC's won-loss record is 15-6 in the Rose Bowl and 2-0 in other games with wins in the 1975 and 1977 Liberty and Bluebonnet Bowls.

Current coach John Robinson stands 2-0, having defeated Michigan, 14-6, in the 1977 Rose Bowl and Texas A&M, 47-28, in the 1977 Bluebonnet Bowl.

JOHN ROBINSON
Two Bowl Wins In Two Years

JOHN ROBINSON
Head Football Coach

John Robinson is a man who acts quickly.

He thinks fast, walks fast, talks fast and coaches even faster. In his first year as USC head coach, he won 11 straight games, upset Michigan in the Rose Bowl and guided the Trojans to a No. 2 ranking in both final wire service polls.

In his second year, 1977, the Trojans ran their winning streak to 15 straight games — longest in the nation — before slumping in mid-season. But they rallied to beat UCLA in their final game and made it two bowl victories in two years under Robinson with a 47-28 rout of Texas A&M in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

With marks of 11-1 and 8-4, John's two-year record is 19-5.

In 1976 Robinson had been the first rookie head coach from the Pac-8 to go to the Rose Bowl in 25 years. And to top that, he was the first rookie from the Pac-8 to win the Rose Bowl in 61 years — since William H. Dietz did it with Washington State in 1916, in the second Rose Bowl ever played.

For his first year success, Robinson's fellow coaches voted him Pac-8 Coach of the Year and District IX Coach of the Year.

Innovative and imaginative, Robinson has put together two straight potent offensive teams. The 1976 Trojans finished third in the nation in total offense (based on regular season figures) with 432.5 yards a game, and third in scoring with 33.8 points per game.

The 1977 Trojans followed by finished fourth in the nation in total offense with 451 yards per game. Counting 620 in the Bluebonnet Bowl, they gained more yards than any USC team in history, breaking by over 300 the record which had lasted since 1929.

In building those productive offenses, Robinson fulfilled a major promise he had made when he took over from John McKay, the winningest coach in USC history.

"Under McKay, the USC tailback became the most famous — and best — single position in college football," he said. "Now, we'd like to create a similar environment for the quarterback."

Considering the remarkable success of USC's tailbacks, that's a stunning goal. But Robinson is closing in on it.

In 1975, for example, Vince Evans and Rob Hertel combined to pass for only 4 touchdowns and 910 yards, completing 35 per cent of their attempts. In 1976, Robinson's first year, Evans and Hertel threw for 18 touchdowns and 1892 yards, hitting 56 per cent. They completed 125 passes to 49 the previous year and even threw less interceptions, 8 to 10.

Evans wound up his career being named Player of the Game in the Rose Bowl.

In 1977 Hertel shattered USC single season records for touchdown passes (19), yards passing (2,145) and total offense yardage (2,053). He completed 54 per cent.

And he wound up his career being named Offensive Player of the Game in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Along the way, the Trojan running game under Robinson has remained as potent as ever, averaging better than five yards a carry both seasons. Robinson's current No. 1 tailback, Charles White, comes into his junior season already the No. 5 rusher in Trojan history.

But John Robinson is not a one-dimensional coach.

"We'll move the ball," he said before his first season, "but no one wins a championship without a good defense. We intend to have one."

And, as the coach predicted, he won his championship with an outstanding defense — which held opponents to just 94 points in USC's 11 straight victories after an opening loss.

The Trojan defenders held Michigan, the national leader in total offense and scoring, to 217 yards and 33 points UNDER the Wolverines' average. And they shut out UCLA, the second leading scoring team in the country at the time, for the first 56 minutes of their Rose Bowl showdown.

But Robinson thinks of his job as more complex than just coaching football. He's also established an elaborate tutorial and counseling program for USC's players.

"We have a tremendous responsibility to each of our athletes to provide them with a good education," he says. "Yes, we recruit ambitious young men, but often it's a very narrow ambition when they're 18 — pointed solely to football.

"We want to inspire players to be as ambitious about school as they are about football. We in the coaching profession can do a better job of motivating them than we have in the past."

Born in Chicago (July 25, 1935) and raised in San Mateo, California, Robinson went to grammar school with Oakland Raider coach John Madden. He later served as the best man in Madden's wedding.

At San Mateo's Serra High, John played football and baseball, winning Catholic All-American and All-Northern California honors at end for the football team.

At Oregon — where he received a 1958 bachelor's degree in education — John was a letterman end when the Ducks won the Pacific Coast Conference championship in 1957. He played briefly in the 1958 Rose Bowl against Ohio State (a 10-7 loss).

When he took over as coach at USC, John was well prepared for his job. He brought with him 16 years of full-time coaching experience — 12 as an assistant at Oregon (1960-1971), 3 as McKay's offensive coordinator at USC (1972-74) and 1 as backfield coach of the Oakland Raiders (1975).

The Trojan coach and his wife, Barbara, now live in La Habra, California, with their two daughters, Teresa, 18, and Lynn, 17; and two sons, David, 15, and Christopher, 11.

TALKING WITH ROBINSON...

John, your third year as USC coach will be the first year of the Pac-10. What effect will Arizona and Arizona State have on USC and the league?

"A very positive effect. When we play Arizona State in Tempe this season, the stadium will be packed. There will be 70,000 people on hand, and they could probably get 200,000. It will be as exciting an event as you could see in college football.

"Arizona State and USC have never played each other, but we're starting a rivalry that could have great tradition. It could be comparable perhaps to USC-Stanford, which is usually one of the better games in the country. And I expect an electric atmosphere when we play Arizona, too.

"The more intensely competitive situations we get like that, I think the better our conference will be."

What will the Arizona teams do to the league race?

"Their addition increases the possibility of the champion having a loss. I think there'll be more upsets and more close games throughout the league.

"In fact, we'll have a very well balanced race this year, and it looks like any of a half dozen teams could win it. This might be the best this conference has ever been."

You've been coach for 2½ years now. Do you still have the same sense of excitement as you did before?

"There's no question that I do. This is an infinitely fascinating job in its variety — and that's stimulated me a great deal. But I think that like any other job, the longer you have it, the more accurately you're able to perceive what it really takes to be successful.

"I hope I'll feel like I'm continuing to learn every year . . . even if I'm a head coach for 15 or 20 years."

After going 11-1 in your first year, USC ran its winning streak to 15 straight and was ranked No. 1 last season after four games. Then there was a mid-season slump. What happened?

"Our major failure was our inability to perform consistently. We did not make week-to-week progress. If you drew a graph on our team, you'd see rapid improvement from one week to another, and then deterioration in the next week. Certainly, we had weeks when we played some great games, but there were some very disappointing efforts on our part, too.

"We all share in that failure. When things go wrong, it isn't your players who fail, it's the entire football team. That reflects first on the head coach, then on his staff, then on the team as a whole.

"There are usually a lot of external reasons why one fails, too, and we encountered some, like key injuries. But you can't let those things become excuses. Sure, we were disappointed we didn't go to the Rose Bowl, but the most disappointing thing is that we didn't perform to our capabilities."

Is that one of the biggest challenges in coaching — getting everyone to perform close to 100 percent of their capabilities?

"It's probably the most challenging thing in life — trying to reach your potential as often as possible. Our 1976 team came very close to reaching its maximum potential, and it was certainly an outstanding team by the end of the season . . . maybe a great one. The 1977 team didn't make it.

"Now the challenge is: can the 1978 team reach its potential, whatever that may be? My job as head coach is get as close as possible to 100 percent out of myself and to get the coaches and players around me to do their jobs as close to 100 percent as possible.

"The dramatic thing about sports, of course, is that your efforts are so obvious. If you drop off, say, 2 percent in performance, it shows immediately."

In retrospect, could it have hurt your 1977 team to be ranked No. 1 so early?

"We thought we appraised ourselves honestly. When we sat around as a staff and talked about it, we said, 'Hey, we don't deserve this. This team has not proven itself to be in that caliber yet.' And yet, after being ranked No. 1 for two weeks, we went into the slump, starting with the loss to Alabama.

"To say the top ranking is the reason you didn't improve, that you became self-satisfied, is a very superficial analysis. But deep down inside it can be one of the factors.

"The seducing thing about being No. 1 is that it allows you to say, 'Gee, if we just stay as good as we are, we'll be okay.' But that never is true. You've got to keep struggling, instead of trying to maintain your position. The minute you say, 'We're okay,' there's a disaster around the corner."

Speaking of No. 1, USC was ranked first in the country in high school recruiting last spring. You landed 24 freshmen, 9 from out of state. Is USC turning more to recruiting out-of-California players?

"Not really. California is the primary base of our recruiting. We'll take a California athlete first. I'm convinced that the quality and quantity of football players in Southern California is second to none.

"But I do believe that wherever there's a great football player, we have to go after him. We try and recruit maybe 10 of the best players in the country and hopefully get three or four. And, because of the great tradition of USC football, we find players all across America who are interested.

"But I don't think there's been any change in emphasis."

Is USC facing more national competition in Southern California for the best talent here?

"No, I don't think so. A young man who grows up in Southern California generally dreams of going to a school close by, whether it's USC or UCLA or Cal or Stanford. He usually grows up with a local favorite. And a large number of them grow up dreaming about USC."

Besides size and speed, are there other characteristics you look for in a potential Trojan?

"We want a man who identifies himself with the best.

"Some of us grow up identifying with the underdog. Some of us grow up identifying with the Yankees or old Boston Celtics. We're looking for that second kid, because we perceive USC in that position. We're looking for a young man who sees himself as a great athlete or potential great athlete. He has a better chance of achieving greatness if he dreams about being great.

"There's no question you have to have talent. But talent alone doesn't get it done. You want a man who's willing to do whatever it takes to be successful — on and off the field. Many of the great athletes; in fact, most of the great athletes from USC are really strong human beings, like O.J. Simpson, Tom Seaver, Pat Haden. We're looking for that kind of man — gifted, but very ambitious."

College football continues to grow rapidly. What's been the biggest change on the field in recent years?

"Probably the single greatest improvement in college football in this era has been the sophistication of defenses. If you have just one offensive weapon now, almost every really good defense in the country can organize itself to stop you.

"It used to be that if the defense didn't match up, power against power, the stronger team would win. Now, even if the defense doesn't have the same kind of strength, they can pretty well make adjustments and shut down that one weapon, whether it's running or passing."

So what should a team do offensively these days? Your own USC teams have finished third and fourth in the nation in total offense.

"To really have a great offense you must first have a solid base, where you establish you're going to run the ball effectively, either with power or option football. USC's choice is power, and we've been rushing for about 3,000 yards a year — in fact, we've done it five of the last six years. We're going to block and run with authority. It's been the basis of the Trojan I-formation for 17 years now.

"But that alone isn't enough. You must have a second weapon . . . the pass. Creating balance with those two is really important.

"And there's a third area — trying to confuse the opponent, keep him off balance as much as possible by shifting, going in motion, and so on. I think a truly great offense must have all those things."

Can you try to do too much on offense?

"Yes, that's the scary thing. There's a danger you can attempt to do too much and become inefficient. Our offense was inefficient at times last year, particularly in turning the ball over at crucial times.

"I'm sure there are critics who would say, 'Well, don't do as much. Go back and be more conservative.' But I think recent football history would indicate the clubs that have been winning in the bowl games or the Super Bowl these last few years are the clubs able to mix the pass and run. The key is to be efficient in the execution of your mixture.

"I might add that, although I don't believe you can adhere strictly to a defensive philosophy or conservative offensive philosophy anymore, you still must play good defense. We at USC are very proud of our defensive tradition. We've led the Pac-8 in team defense the last six years."

Football is such a planned game. Does much happen spontaneously on the sidelines, like drawing up a new play in the dirt, so to speak?

"Adjusting your plan is crucial, but it depends on your organization prior to the game. You must have prepared your players to understand what you're going to try to do and then understand that adjustments may still have to be made. But it's within the same framework. If you make up a new play, or a new defense, it usually just brings added disaster.

"Most of the really intelligent decisions are decisions that have already been rehearsed. It's like the U.S. space program where it appears that for every problem they have a plan to solve it. I think football coaches would like to approach that efficiency.

"But if you're down in the dirt drawing up something new, your chances of having that come about successfully are almost nil."

USC has a very tough schedule in 1978. Do you prepare any differently for a real difficult schedule?

"Well, we have to get mentally ready for the challenge. It is quite a schedule. In the first half our oppnents include such powers as Alabama, Arizona State, Michigan State and Texas Tech. Then, starting in late October, we'll play California, Stanford, Washington, UCLA and Notre Dame back-to-back.

"Those latter five teams were 42-16 last year and 3-0 in bowl games. I don't know that a USC team has had to meet that kind of challenge in some time . . . that many difficult games back-to-back.

"The key to our season is improving week-to-week and reaching a high level of performance by the time we get to those five games. We have to get on a hot streak, and play our way through."

As you close in on three full years as head coach, what kind of player has given you the most satisfaction?

"Obviously, the guy we have the most effect on. In a teaching job like ours, I think you always tend to identify with the one who comes the farthest, whether it be athletically, or academically, or emotionally, or socially. He brings you the most pride and pleasure.

"I think we've had a dramatic effect on the academic achievements of our players in the last two years, for example. I feel our team is performing at an admirable rate right now in the classroom.

"Now it's wrong for me, or self indulgent, to take too much satisfaction in the academic achievements of a Rhodes Scholar like Pat Haden or those of Paul McDonald, our current quarterback. They were almost straight A students coming into USC.

"The challenge is the young man who otherwise wouldn't have gone to college if it weren't for athletics, but who now has a chance to come out with an education and a degree . . . and an established belief in himself as a strong human being.

"During the four years we're involved with players they go through perhaps the most change in their lives. And we have a real effect on them — either for good or conceivably for bad. That's very exciting. And the opportunity is limitless."

ASSISTANT COACHES

MARV GOUX

Assistant Head Coach
Defensive Line

Marv Goux, now 46, has become a USC legend.

Named assistant head coach last year by John Robinson, Goux is in his 22nd season on the USC staff. He was one of only two assistants to coach through the entire John McKay era, when the Trojans won four national titles and went to eight Rose Bowls.

The inspirational Goux has coached 11 first team All-Americans, including Gary Jeter, John Grant, Charles Weaver, Al Cowlings, Jimmy Gunn, Tim Rossovich, Damon Bame, Dan Ficca, Ron Mix, and Marlin and the late Mike McKeever.

Marv first became a USC assistant back in 1957 under Don Clark. For three years he was both head freshman coach and varsity assistant, before moving up to the varsity full-time when McKay took over in 1960.

Except for a season as a high school coach, Marv has been a Trojan since 1952, when he started at linebacker for the USC Rose Bowl team that blanked Wisconsin, 7 to 0. Before he was through as a player, Goux had started three years, including 1954 and 1955, when he went both ways, performing at both linebacker and center.

Small at 5-10 and 185 pounds, Goux made up for his lack of size with quickness and great desire. He is one of just two Trojans to twice win the Davis-Teschke Award, given annually to USC's most inspirational player. Marv won that honor in 1954 and 1955, after coming back from a back injury that sidelined him for all of 1953. He was also elected co-captain in 1955.

Following graduation, Marv returned to Ventura County and spent one year as head coach at Carpinteria High School. His team reeled off a 9-1 record and went to the 1956 small school CIF finals.

DON LINDSEY

Defensive Coordinator
Inside Linebackers

At 35, Don Lindsey is considered one of the most innovative young coaches in the country with a solid background in both offense and defense.

He was named USC's defensive coordinator by head coach John Robinson, who gave him a great deal of the credit for the 1976 USC defense that allowed just 93 points in 11 straight winning games. In 1977 the Trojans led the Pac-8 in team defense for the sixth straight year.

There are nine former USC linebackers — who were coached by Lindsey — currently playing pro football.

Now in his eighth year on the USC staff, Lindsey has already coached under Bear Bryant at Alabama, Frank Broyles at Arkansas, and, of course, five years under John McKay at USC. Don was one of four assistants who decided to stay at USC when Robinson took over.

Lindsey began his coaching career at Alabama under Bryant in 1965, spending two seasons as offensive and defensive backfield coach, respectively, while also earning his master's degree in education.

While Lindsey was at Alabama, the Crimson Tide won the national championship in 1965 and wound up ranked third in 1966 while compiling an 11-0 record. Don coached quarterback Scott Hunter, who broke several of Joe Namath's passing records.

From Alabama Lindsey went to Montana State where he served as defensive coordinator under Jim Sweeney in 1967. He then moved to Washington State with Sweeney for the 1968 and 1969 seasons, serving as offensive coordinator.

Before coming to USC in 1971, Don spent one year at Arkansas under Broyles, where he coached the defensive backs. He was born September 17, 1943 in Camden, Arkansas.

PAUL HACKETT

Quarterbacks, Passing Game

In only five years as a full-time assistant coach — three at California and two at USC — Paul Hackett has built a national reputation as an outstanding teacher of the passing game.

Working in John Robinson's new look passing attack in 1976, Hackett coached Vince Evans and Rob Hertel and increased their total pass completions from 49 to 125, their yardage from 910 to 1,892 and their TD passes from 4 to 18. Evans improved his completion percentage from 31% to 54%.

In 1977 Hertel set new USC records for touchdown passes (19) and passing yardage (2,145), while split end Randy Simmrin, also coached by Hackett, set Trojan career marks for catches (100) and receiving yardage (2,015). Simmrin also set a new single season mark for receiving yardage (840).

The 31-year-old Hackett was one of four new Trojan coaches hired by Robinson shortly after he took over. At California, he had coached All-American quarterback Steve Bartkowski, the nation's leading passer in 1974, and NFL's first draft pick in 1975; and the late Joe Roth, the Pac-8's total offense and passing leader in 1975.

Paul was a quarterback himself at the University of California at Davis, where he was a three-year starter and led the Far Western Conference in passing as a senior. He was first team all-conference his last season.

He coached three years at U.C. Davis, assisting with the freshmen one season and then directing the frosh to a combined 13-0 record in 1970 and 1971.

Born July 5, 1947, Hackett earned a bachelor's degree in history at U.C. Davis and a master's in physical education at Sacramento State.

HUDSON HOUCK

Offensive Line

When John Robinson became USC's head football coach in late 1975, the first man he hired was Hudson Houck.

Now 35, Houck came to USC after four years at Stanford, the last three as offensive line coach (1973 to 1975), but it was also a homecoming. He was a former Trojan player and freshman coach.

Born January 7, 1943, Hudson played and coached under John McKay. He was a reserve center on the national championship Trojan team of 1962, then started the last four games and lettered in 1963. Heavily counted on in 1964, Houck injured his back and played sparingly, the bad back keeping him from lettering.

A 1965 graduate of USC with a bachelor's degree in physical education, Houck was an assistant football coach and teacher at Crescenta Valley High School in 1967 and 1969. His career was interrupted twice by service in the Army.

Hudson came back to USC the first time in 1970 and spent two seasons as head freshman coach and varsity graduate assistant. His 1971 Trobabes — USC's last freshman team — went 4-0 and boasted such stars as Anthony Davis, Pat Haden, Richard Wood, Johnny McKay, Charles Phillips, Allen Carter and Marvin Cobb.

JOHN JACKSON

Offensive Backs

John Jackson's running backs — in his two seasons as USC backfield coach — have gained almost four miles of yardage.

Now 42, the personable Jackson has helped produce running games that turned out 3,212 yards and a 5.0 average in 1976, followed by 3,231 yards and a 5.2 average in 1977. One of four coaches hired by John Robinson shortly after he became head coach, Jackson came to USC from Illinois, where he was assisting one of the nation's winningest coaches, Bob Blackman.

Jackson first joined Blackman at Dartmouth in 1970, coaching the backs and receivers for a team that went 9-0-0. When Blackman moved to Illinois in 1971, he took Jackson with him, and for five seasons, John coached the backfield for the Illini.

Previously, in 1968 and 1969, Jackson was offensive coordinator for the football team and head coach of the track team at Hofstra.

He had a successful high school career, coaching Boys High School in Brooklyn from 1965 to 1967, where he was twice named New York Metropolitan Coach of the Year. While coaching at Boys High, he was also Dean of Students at his old school, Brooklyn Tech.

A 1956 graduate of NYU, Jackson earned bachelor's and master's degrees there in physical education.

He was a five-year teacher and assistant football coach at Brooklyn Tech, served in the Marines three years (attaining the rank of captain) and then moved on to Boys High. A Brooklyn native, John was born February 4, 1936.

JOHN MARSHALL

Outside Linebackers

John Marshall, now in his second year on the USC staff, is the fifth coach in recent history to make what has become a familiar move: going from Oregon to USC.

It's proven successful for coaches John McKay, John Robinson, Bruce Snyder (now at Utah State) and fellow assistant Norv Turner.

Marshall, who works with the outside linebackers, was an assistant coach at Oregon for eight years, serving his first three as the frosh mentor and the last five tutoring the offensive line.

Previously, the 32-year-old Marshall had served two seasons as a student assistant coach. He had played frosh football at Washington State, but his career was cut short by a neck injury. He then transferred to Hancock Junior College and from there to Oregon, earning a B.S. in Health Education in 1969.

John was a three-year letterman in football and baseball at Arroyo Grande High School and earned All-CIF honors as a tackle and linebacker. He also lettered one year in wrestling.

BOB TOLEDO

Secondary

Bob Toledo, 32, is one of those rare combinations in football — a great athlete who also became a successful coach.

Before coming to USC in 1976, Toledo led University of California at Riverside to successive undefeated league (CCAA) championships. At USC his defensive backs have accounted for 34 of USC's impressive total of 44 interceptions the past two years. The Trojans led the nation with 28 in 1976.

And as a quarterback at San Francisco State, Toledo was not only a College Division All-American in 1967, but he set eight NCAA passing and total offense records and still holds five of them.

The NCAA records Bob set in 1967 included most touchdown passes in a season (45), most yards passed for in a single game (568), most yards passed for in a season (3,513), most passing yards gained per game (351.3) and highest total offense in a season (3,407 yards).

Before transferring to San Francisco State for the 1966 and 1967 seasons, Toledo earned JC All-American honors at quarterback at San Jose City College in 1965, after starting for the San Jose State freshmen in 1964.

Following a brief trial with the San Francisco 49ers in 1968, Toledo began his coaching career at San Francisco's Riordan High, where he served one year as an assistant and three seasons (1970 to 1972) as head coach. He guided Riordan to a 26-5-1 record and won two West Catholic Athletic League championships.

Moving to U.C. Riverside in 1973, Toledo was the offensive coordinator for an 8-2 team that was fourth in the nation in total offense. As Riverside's head coach in 1974 and 1975, Bob turned in 8-3 and 7-3 records and finished ninth and sixth in the nation in total offense (NCAA Division II). His 1974 team was also 10th in defense nationally.

NORVAL TURNER

Receivers

Former Oregon quarterback Norval Turner once threw a touchdown pass against USC. Now he coaches the Trojan receivers.

The 26-year-old Turner was a part-time coach on John Robinson's first staff in 1976, and he so impressed his boss with his hard work and ideas that he replaced Skip Husbands as a full-time assistant in the spring of 1977. (Husbands left for pro football.)

Currently ninth on Oregon's all-time passing list with 1,807 yards and 11 touchdowns, Turner lettered three years for the Ducks, started as a junior and senior and was named co-captain as a senior.

USC's national champions barely defeated Oregon and Turner, 16-7, in 1974 in a game made closer by Norv's 45-yard second quarter touchdown pass to Greg Bauer.

Born May 17, 1952, Turner was a quarterback and defensive back at Alhambra High in Martinez, California, going both ways as a senior and leading his team to a 9-0 mark and league championship.

Turner's best year at Oregon was his final one when he threw for 1,261 yards, completing 99 of 202 passes. He was named ABC-TV's Player of the Game in a regionally televised 27-23 victory over Air Force.

Norv graduated from Oregon in 1975 with a bachelor's degree in history, and spent one year as a graduate assistant on the Duck staff, coaching receivers on the varsity and quarterbacks and receivers on the JV's.

JERRY ATTAWAY

Offensive Line

Former Utah State aide Jerry Attaway joins the USC staff this year as a part-time coach. At Utah State, Attaway assisted Bruce Snyder, the ex-USC assistant coach.

Jerry played football with Trojan assistant Paul Hackett as a junior cornerback at UC Davis but was forced to quit that year after suffering cardiac arrest. After a year away from the sport he returned to assist Hackett with the UC Davis frosh.

At the same time he was a UC Davis coach, Attaway continued his education at Sacramento State and graduated in 1972 with a physical education degree.

Following graduation, he served as an assistant coach at College of Idaho for three years before joining the Utah State staff.

The 32-year-old Attaway was born in Susanville, January 3, 1946, and played four sports at Lassen High there. He played football for two years at Yuba Junior College before transferring to UC Davis.

GIL HASKELL

Special Teams

Gil Haskell is in his first year as a part-time coach at USC after coaching the past nine years at St. Ignatius High in San Francisco. He will be in charge of the special teams for the Trojans.

Haskell was head coach at St. Ignatius the last five years with a 34-15 record after serving the previous four seasons as an assistant. He also was track coach four years, winning three Catholic Athletic League titles.

Gil began his coaching career at Riordan High, also in San Francisco, serving as line coach for three years. He coached the track team to two league titles in three seasons.

The 34-year-old Haskell played on three Far West Conference champion football teams at San Francisco State as a defensive back. He was all-conference as a senior and "Little" All-Coast second team. He had a tryout with the San Francisco 49ers.

Born September 24, 1943, Gil played football and baseball at St. Ignatius High. He was a halfback and defensive back on three St. Ignatius champion football teams of the 3-A Division in San Francisco and a catcher on two 3-A Division champion baseball squads.

Haskell's uncle, the late Dr. William O'Grady, was a part-owner of the San Francisco 49ers, and going into the 1978 season, Gil had not missed a 49er home game in 22 years.

HAROLD STEELE

Defensive Line

USC's starting nose guard two years ago, Harold Steele returns to the football program this season as a part-time coach.

Steele lettered two years for the Trojans and was the team's seventh leading tackler with 58 his senior year. He transferred to USC from San Diego City College where he was a first team JC All-American and MVP of the Mission Conference.

He spent last year as a graduate assistant on John Robinson's staff and graduated last June majoring in speech communication.

The 24-year-old Steele was an All-CIF San Diego selection as an offensive and defensive lineman at Lincoln High, playing under former all-pro defensive end Earl Faison.

He played one year at Arizona State before transferring to San Diego City College. Steele was born February 13, 1954.

WHY TROJANS?

USC's nickname, "Trojans," originated in 1912. Up to that time the University of Southern California teams were called the Methodists or Wesleyans, nicknames which were not looked upon with favor by university officials.

So, Warren Bovard, director of athletics and son of university president Dr. George Bovard, asked Los Angeles Times sports editor Owen Bird to select an appropriate nickname.

"At this time, the athletes and coaches of the university were under terrific handicaps," recalled Bird. "They were facing teams that were bigger and better-equipped, yet they had splendid fighting spirit. The name 'Trojans' fitted them.

"I came out with an article prior to a showdown between USC and Stanford in which I called attention to the fighting spirit of USC athletes and named them 'Trojans.' From then on, we used the term 'Trojan' all the time, and it stuck.

"The term 'Trojan' as applied to USC means to me that no matter what the situation, what the odds or what the conditions, the competition must be carried on to the end and those who strive must give all they have and never be weary in doing so."

ATHLETIC STAFF

DR. RICHARD H. PERRY

Athletic Director

In the athletic director's office at USC there's no hint of an energy crisis.

In three years on the job, 49-year-old Dick Perry is off to a fast start in administering a growing program that now includes 24 teams — 14 men's and 10 women's.

Given his constant support, Trojan teams have won 12 national championships in the Perry era — seven by the men and five by the women.

In the last three years Dick has met with more people, made more speeches, answered more urgent phone calls and solved more problems than anyone this side of a presidential candidate.

When he was appointed athletic director by USC president Dr. John Hubbard in November, 1975, Dick was an associate professor of physical education at USC, a post he had held for eight years. He had also been involved in the university leadership. A member of the faculty senate for six years, he served as president of that body in 1974-75.

And, of course, he brought a strong background in athletics to his new job. Before coming to USC, he was head basketball coach at California State University, Long Beach, for nine years and also spent three seasons there as assistant football coach.

In 1975-76, he served as president of the Southwest District of the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. He was president of the California Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation in 1971-72.

When Dr. Perry became head basketball coach at Long Beach in 1958, there was no scholarship help and the team was playing exclusively small colleges. He built the program to a level where the 49ers were playing intersectional games with such teams as Oklahoma State, Wichita State and Creighton and playing doubleheaders with USC and UCLA.

His Long Beach team reached the finals of the College Division Western Regional playoffs in 1960.

Dick left Cal State, Long Beach when offered an associate professorship at USC in 1967 and received his Ph.D. degree from USC in 1968.

The athletic director was born July 13, 1929. He graduated from Long Beach Wilson High School and received his bachelor's degree from the College of Emporia in Kansas in 1951 and his master's degree from Kansas State Teachers College.

Dr. Perry and his wife, Donna, live in Garden Grove. They have four children: Jim, 26, a graduate of USC and junior varsity basketball coach at Crescenta Valley High School; Joan, 22, a USC senior; John, 20, a junior at USC; and Janelle, 12.

VIRGIL LUBBERDEN

Associate Athletic Director

Around Christmas time every year, there is someone almost as busy as Santa Claus. He's Virgil Lubberden, one of USC's three associate athletic directors.

Besides his USC duties, Lubberden is the game manager for the Rose Bowl, the granddaddy of all the New Year's Day classics. He made his Rose Bowl debut as manager in 1963 when USC beat Wisconsin in that memorable 42-37 game. After several years of alternating as Rose Bowl manager with his UCLA counterpart, Virg was named to the position permanently in 1973.

In his 15th year of managing USC's business affairs, Lubberden became an associate athletic director three years ago. He had served as an assistant athletic director the previous three years.

As the business manager, Virg formulates the USC athletic budget that covers 24 sports. He also prepares contracts with opponents in all sports and negotiates rental fees with the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum for football and Sports Arena for basketball.

His other responsibilities include the purchase of athletic medical insurance, negotiation for radio and television coverage, supervision of game management for home events and assisting in the scheduling of football opponents.

This year he took on the added duty of Director of University Relations for the ticket office.

A USC graduate, Lubberden received his bachelor of science degree in business administration in 1949.

NICK PAPPAS

Associate Athletic Director

Nick Pappas is the man behind USC's strong, active athletic support groups and celebrates his silver anniversary of service this year. He has built the Trojan booster group into the most successful organization of its kind in the nation.

Born in Seattle, Pappas entered USC in 1934 and lettered three years as a tailback for Coach Howard Jones. Following his graduation in 1938, he spent two years in law school and also assisted the Trojan frosh under Julie Bescos in 1936 and Gus Shaver in 1939. He played pro football with the Hollywood Bears in 1938 and 1939.

He scouted for pro clubs for six seasons and for USC two years before becoming a Trojan assistant football coach in 1953. He became the Director of Trojan Club Affairs and Athletic Fund-Raising in 1959. Two years later, he became Assistant Director of Planning. Since 1962, he has been Director of Athletic Funding, consisting of Trojan Club, Cardinal and Gold, Trojaneers, Football Alumni Club, Trojan Coaches Club and Women's Trojan Club.

BARBARA HEDGES

Associate Athletic Director

One of the first — if not the first — woman assistant athletic directors in the country, Barbara Hedges enters her fourth year in charge of women's athletics at USC.

Elevated to associate athletic director in 1975, Barbara handles seven sports — basketball, golf, gymnastics, swimming, tennis, track and field and volleyball.

The women's progam has become one of the most successful in the nation. During the past two years the Trojan women's volleyball and tennis teams have won back-to-back national titles. The Trojan women's teams had never won a national championship before Hedges' arrival.

Also, the swimming and gymnastics teams finished fourth and fifth, respectively, in the country last spring.

A graduate of Arizona State in 1963, Barbara earned a master's degree in physical education from the University of Arizona in 1971.

She taught physical education at West Denver High School and the University of Arizona for five years each.

RAY GEORGE

Assistant Athletic Director

Still ranked as an all-time Trojan line great, Ray George returned to USC in 1971 as assistant athletic director.

Although never gaining consensus All-American mention, George was never outplayed in three years of varsity football at USC. Following his graduation, Ray then played two years of professional football with the Detroit Lions in 1939 and the Philadelphia Eagles in 1940.

Ray first joined the Trojan coaching staff as line coach in 1946 and served in that capacity through 1950. He moved up to the head coaching job at Texas A&M in 1951 and coached the Aggies for three seasons.

He retired from the coaching ranks following the 1953 season and went into private business. Don Clark persuaded the popular assistant coach to rejoin the USC staff in 1958. He served as John McKay's senior assistant for five years.

DAVE LEVY

Assistant Athletic Director

Dave Levy, following 16 years as an assistant football coach under John McKay, is now in his third year as a full-time assistant athletic director at USC.

Levy was named to his present position in December of 1975 by new athletic director Dr. Richard Perry. He had served as both an assistant A.D. and assistant football coach the previous four years.

The genial Levy came to Troy following a highly successful three-year coaching career at Long Beach Poly High School. In the three years he was at Long Beach, the Jackrabbits compiled a 28-1-1 record, winning the CIF championship in 1958 and 1959.

A 1950 graduate of Long Beach Poly High, Levy played football two years at Long Beach City College and lettered at guard at UCLA in 1952-53.

Before becoming head coach at Long Beach Poly in 1957, Levy assisted with the UCLA frosh (1954), was an assistant at Long Beach City College (1955) and was line coach at Poly (1956).

JAMES DENNIS

Assistant Athletic Director

Serving as an assistant athletic director under Dr. Richard Perry is only one of the many duties of Dr. James Dennis at USC.

Dr. Dennis, 34, in his sixth year as an assistant A.D., also is involved in three other positions at the university. He is the director of campus life and recreation, an assistant professor in the physical education department and coordinator of the summer sports club.

As assistant athletic director, he supervises all special events hosted by USC, such as the NCAA Tennis Championships and Pacific-8 Track Championships in 1974 and the Pacific-8 Southern Division Swimming Championships in 1977. He also assists in the administration of the crew, golf, gymnastics, sailing, skiing, soccer and volleyball programs.

Dr. Dennis received his doctor's degree in athletic administration from USC. While working on that degree, he served as an assistant swimming coach for Peter Daland's Trojan teams from 1971 thru 1973.

JIM PERRY

Sports Information Director

Jim Perry, who collaborated with former USC coach John McKay on his popular autobiography, McKay: A Coach's Story, is in his fifth year as sports information director.

Perry is also the color commentator and interviewer on USC's football game broadcasts on KFI. He works with play-by-play announcer Tom Kelly.

Perry, 36, has a background in journalism, radio and television. He came to USC after six years as a sportswriter with the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, where he covered college football and wrote features on major league baseball, pro football and basketball, boxing and track.

A 1964 graduate of USC, Perry has also written sports for KMPC radio and United Press International and was the assistant USC sports information director in 1966.

In 1967 he was sports producer at Channel 5 in Hollywood, writing the nightly sportscasts for Dick Enberg and Keith Jackson.

Perry assumed his present job in January 1974. He is assisted by Russell Ewald and Dennis Kirkpatrick.

JACK WARD

Head Trainer

Jack Ward begins his 21st year on the USC training staff. He's been the head trainer the last 19 years after serving one year as an assistant.

Ward has worked under three football coaches — Don Clark, John McKay and now John Robinson. He's currently assisted by Paul Williams, Dave Maurer, Bob Smetanka and John Califano.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, he worked at his alma mater for four years as an assistant trainer until 1956. He then attended Therapy School at the Herman Hospital in Houston, Texas for two years.

Following his graduation from Therapy School, he served as a physical therapist with the County Health Department in Sacramento for one year and then joined the USC staff.

GEORGE YABLONSKY

Head Equipment Manager

George Yablonsky begins his 12th year as USC's head equipment manager.

Yablonsky served as equipment manager for two years at Orange Coast College and six years at Santa Ana College before coming to USC.

He retired from the Marine Corps after serving for 22 years. He worked for 18 years as an aviation manager and the last four in the athletics division of special services as an equipment manager.

Yablonsky is assisted by Bill Sutton and Carl Lundgren.

RADIO BROADCASTER

TOM KELLY

Play-by-Play Broadcaster

Sportscaster Tom Kelly has been involved with USC football since about the time freshmen on the 1978 varsity were born.

The colorful voice of the Trojans first began calling play-by-play of USC football and basketball in 1961 and has broadcast the games on either radio or television every year since. Currently, he does the football games on KFI radio (640 in Los Angeles) with commentator Jim Perry.

Besides broadcasting Trojan games this season, Kelly will also call all 20 exhibition and regular season games of the San Diego Chargers. Weekdays, he does twice-a-day sportscasts on KNX radio.

In his 27th year as a broadcaster, Kelly is a Minneapolis native who began his career in the Midwest at stations in Duluth, Minn., Des Moines, Iowa, and Peoria, Ill., before coming west.

Tom has won several awards in his career, including three Golden Mikes, but gets just as excited away from the action when he's playing golf. He takes his clubs on every Trojan trip.

A LOOK AT USC IN 1978...

In even years 1972 and 1974 USC was the No. 1 team in the nation. In 1976 the Trojans finished No. 2. But in 1978 the key word to describe them is unpredictable.

"This will be a very interesting team," says John Robinson, beginning his third season as coach. "It has great potential, but in six years as assistant and head coach it's the youngest USC team I've ever been associated with.

"We have very few seniors, which is one of those good news/bad news situations. It's exciting, because if our young players develop like we think they will, we've got a great future.

"But it's also scary right now, because we don't know how well they'll play while they're getting that experience. Some people become experienced players in two months, some in two years.

"But this is a football team on the rise. Hopefully, we'll mature in a hurry and be outstanding this season. For sure, we're very excited about 1979."

USC was disappointing last season, finishing 8-4 after a two-week fling as the nation's No. 1 team early in the year. At 4-0, the Trojans had a 15-game winning streak going, but turned around to lose four of the next six, before rallying to edge UCLA and whip Texas A&M (47-28) in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

That was USC's fourth bowl victory in four years and second straight under Robinson, but it's no secret the Trojan goal is always the Rose Bowl. In the first year of the expanded Pac-10 (adding Arizona and Arizona State), they'll be aiming for their 9th trip to Pasadena in 13 years.

The Trojans will try and bounce back against one of their most difficult schedules in recent memory. Six bowl teams are in the lineup, including three of the major bowl winners — national champion Notre Dame (Cotton), No. 2 Alabama (Sugar) and No. 9 Washington (Rose).

The other bowl teams ahead include Stanford (Sun), Arizona State (Fiesta) and Texas Tech (Tangerine), and there's also a non-league game with resurgent Michigan State, picked as a challenger in the Big Ten.

Starting in late October, USC must also play four Pac-10 challengers (California, Stanford, Washington and UCLA) and Notre Dame in succession.

The Trojans will attack the season with 11 returning full-time starters — five on offense, six on defense — and a total of 32 lettermen. Of the top 44 players, however, only 12 are seniors.

"Sophomores and freshmen will have a major impact on our team," says Robinson. "And in the defensive line and at inside linebacker we expect freshmen to come in and play right away."

Robinson's freshmen, however, are the talk of the recruiting world. USC was ranked first in the nation in high school recruiting with a 24-man haul that included 10 prep All-Americans — three of them quarterbacks, two of them linebackers, two defensive linemen, an offensive lineman, a fullback and a defensive back.

OFFENSE

In Robinson's two years as Trojan head coach, his teams have finished third and fourth in the nation in total offense, winding up with 465 yards per game last season. He looks for USC to explode again if junior quarterback Paul McDonald is as good as he's looked in practice and part-time duty.

"Paul's a great natural passer who's intelligent and quickly able to find secondary receivers," says Robinson, " but he's virtually untested. He's a symbol of the whole team. We know he'll be good — but when?"

The left-handed McDonald played in one game as a freshman and four as a sophomore when they had already been decided. He's completed 20 of his 34 USC passes for 225 yards with no interceptions.

When Paul hands off the ball, however, he'll give it to the top pair of I-formation tailbacks in America.

Junior pre-season All-American Charles White is on the way to becoming the No. 1 rusher in Trojan history. He's darted for 2,336 yards and averaged 5.3 a carry in his two years. From scrimmage White has gone for 17 touchdowns — including runs of 79, 60 and 35 yards — and as a receiver he's caught scoring screen passes of 34, 25 and 22 yards.

Charles ran for 1,478 yards as a sophomore, surpassing 100 yards in 8 of 12 games.

When White sat down in 1977, Dwight Ford, now a senior, literally dashed defenses off their feet. The 9.6 sprinter ran for 763 yards, averaged 7.8 a carry, broke off touchdown runs of 94, 70, 63 and 53 yards and had a non-scoring 62-yarder that set up another TD.

"White and Ford are as good as anyone in the country," says Robinson.

The fullback in USC's I-formation will be senior letterman Lynn Cain, who ran for 375 yards, averaged 5.4 and scored seven TD's as a tailback-fullback in 1977. He's capably backed up by hard-hitting junior letterman Ricky Johnson. Both are fast-improving blockers, and "Cain," says Robinson, "might be the biggest surprise in West Coast football this year."

At wide receiver McDonald will aim at a flock of excellent catchers. The Trojans have their best depth on the team here.

Senior split end Calvin Sweeney, a returning starter, caught 33 passes for 564 yards (17.1 average) and six TD's last year, while sophomore letterman flanker Kevin Williams, sixth place finisher in the NCAA 100 meters and leadoff man on the championship USC 400-meter relay team last spring, is a potential star of the future.

Williams, who ran 9.4 in the 100 back in high school, averaged 23.6 yards on his 10 catches last season, including touchdown bombs of 44, 40 and 27 yards.

There's also two outstanding junior JC transfers in redshirt Dan Garcia (a former national junior college receiving leader) and spring transfer Ray Butler, along with a junior letterman, Michael Hayes.

The offensive line will have new players at tight end, strong tackle and center, but has the potential to be outstanding.

Robinson calls senior weakside guard Pat Howell an "All-American candidate" (he made several pre-season teams) and junior weakside tackle Anthony Munoz "an All-American candidate now and potential Outland Trophy winner." On the strong side, junior guard Brad Budde is another candidate for national honors.

FULLBACK LYNN CAIN

Howell, Munoz and Budde are all returning starters. Howell and Budde were first team All-Pac-8 and first team All-West Coast in 1977.

The strongside tackle will either be sophomore letterman Keith Van Horne or senior Otis Page, a 1976 starter coming back off two knee operations.

At center are junior letterman Chris Foote and junior JC transfer Brad Green.

Two talented sophomores are contending at tight end, James Hunter and fall transfer Vic Rakhshani, who started at San Jose State as a 1976 freshman and caught 24 passes.

DEFENSE

USC has led the Pac-8 in team defense for six straight years, but freshmen could play a major role in the line and at inside linebacker this season.

Six starters return, led by junior inside linebacker Dennis Johnson and senior outside linebacker Garry Cobb, the team's two leading tacklers in 1977, and tough senior nose guard Rich Dimler.

Johnson made 105 tackles and broke up seven passes. Cobb brought down 92 runners, broke up seven passes and ran 30 yards for a touchdown with an interception against TCU. Trojan nose guards aren't expected to make many tackles, but Dimler got 66.

Other starters back include junior tackle Myron Lapka, who made 45 tackles, including seven for losses, senior rover Willie Crawford (42 tackles, one interception, five passes broken up) and alternating cornerback starters Larry Braziel and Carter Hartwig, both seniors. Braziel was second in the secondary with 44 tackles, led in passes broken up with 14, picked off two passes and blocked a field goal against Alabama. Hartwig made 28 tackles.

The secondary should be the strongest part of the USC defense, with Braziel, Hartwig and senior Tim Lavender all possible starters at cornerback, Crawford and sensational sophomore letterman Ronnie Lott considered co-starters at rover, and sophomore letterman Dennis Smith, a 7-2 high jumper, at safety.

Joining Dimler and Lapka in the line will be sophomore letterman tackle Ty Sperling (27 tackles).

Playing across from Cobb at outside linebacker will be two men considered co-starters, letterman junior Larry McGrew and non-letterman senior Charlie Moses.

Next to Johnson at inside linebacker is non-letterman sophomore Steve Busick, but three freshmen — Riki Gray, Darrell Jordan and William (Chip) Banks — are candidates to play right away.

Five freshmen — Dennis Edwards, Charles Ussery, Byron Darby, Ken Jordan and Kelly Thomas — along with fall JC transfer Steve Moyer are considered threats to see plenty of action in the line.

KICKERS

Returning is senior placekicker Frank Jordan, who tied USC's single-season record with 14 field goals, including the 38-yarder that beat UCLA with two seconds left. Also back are senior punter Marty King, who averaged 40 yards on 49 kicks, and junior kickoff specialist Rob Kerr.

USC PLAYER SKETCHES

(Players are listed in alphabetical order by position.)

QUARTERBACKS

(2) GORDON ADAMS — 6-1, 190, 20, So.

A spring, 1977 walkon, Adams is still a non-scholarship player but has impressed the coaches both with his physical ability and his intelligence. He's a business administration major with an overall 3.76 grade point average, and the first time he got a USC play book he took it home by himself and learned it thoroughly.

Last fall he threw against the first team defense in practice, impersonating quarterbacks like Guy Benjamin (Stanford) and Jack Thompson (Washington State). He suited up for two games, but never played. He's an adequate runner, good drop back passer, and worked hard in the off season with No. 1 quarterback Paul McDonald. Coaches said his improvement last spring was remarkable.

Adams came to USC from Newport Harbor High School where he was an All-Sunset League quarterback, All-Sunset League first baseman in baseball and student body president.

He loves to ski and says he's always wanted to come to USC because of its business school and athletic tradition. The toughest players he's ever seen, says Adams, are the Trojan defensive backs in practice.

(16) PAUL McDONALD — 6-2, 180, 20, Jr.

He's thrown only 34 passes at USC (completing 58.8%), but left-handed Paul McDonald comes into the season as the No. 1 quarterback — with no one else close for second.

"Paul is a very accurate passer with the ability to throw on the move," says coach John Robinson. "He's not a fast runner, but, like Kenny Stabler of Oakland, he has that ability to maneuver quickly in the pocket and still watch the receivers downfield.

"I've always felt the man who can scramble and still see downfield is much more effective than the one who can run faster but has to take his eyes off the receivers to move. With Paul, we won't be exclusively a drop back passing team. We'll move him around the backfield.

"Paul's also a great natural passer with a fluid motion, and he's very flexible. He's not zeroed in on throwing to one specific guy. He can look for a variety of receivers — and I doubt he'll have a lot of interceptions."

Before 1978 McDonald had no interceptions — completing 20 of his 34 passes for 225 yards. He was 3 for 7 as the third string quarterback in 1976, and 17 for 27 as Rob Hertel's backup in 1977.

McDonald played in four games as a junior, hitting 6 of 10 passes for 83 yards against TCU, 2 of 2 for 30 yards against Washington State, 4 of 8 for 47 against Oregon and 5 of 7 for 31 against Stanford. He directed three touchdown drives, going 38 yards (TCU), 39 (Oregon) and 49 (Stanford).

"Paul was the only player we recruited at quarterback when John Robinson took over as coach in late 1975," says passing coach Paul Hackett. "We went after a player we hoped would be able to step in and take over after Hertel and Vince Evans were gone.

"So far he's right on schedule."

McDonald had been recruited by California for two years, and since USC didn't go after him until Robinson took over, he almost went to Cal.

"I had mixed emotions," he says, "but coaches Robinson and Hackett told me they wanted the quarterback position to become more important at USC and that I was the first recruit to fit into their plans. That's one of the reasons I finally chose USC . . . that and the winning tradition, the academic environment and the proximity to my home."

A business administration major whose favorite class is accounting, McDonald has an overall 3.70 grade point average.

He came to USC from Bishop Amat (also Pat Haden's alma mater), where he was on the All-Angelus League team as a senior, completing 52% of his passes for 950 yards. He threw 4 scoring passes against St. Anthony's, with his favorite target that year (30 catches) being Richie McKay, son of ex-USC coach John McKay. Paul was sidelined most of his junior year by a leg injury.

His favorite player is Ken Stabler "because he's both left-handed and cool under pressure."

(14) ROB PRESTON — 6-3, 203, 21, Jr.

Tentatively listed as No. 2 quarterback going into the fall, Preston has played in only one game at USC — completing 1 of 4 passes (with one dropped) for five yards against TCU in 1977. He threw against the first string defense in practice in 1975, 1976 and 1977, being redshirted in 1976.

Preston had a brilliant prep career at Vista High near San Diego. As a senior he completed 89 of 139 passes (64%) and ran 114 times for 636 yards and a 5.6 average. He led Vista to the CIF title and a 13-0 record, beating Patrick Henry High, 32-0, in the championship game.

Rob was first team All-CIF in football and all-league on the basketball team, playing guard. He still enjoys playing basketball, along with tennis and volleyball. Born in Dalles, Oregon, he's a public administration major.

(10) WALT RANSOM — 6-0, 185, 27, Sr.

USC's oldest player, Ransom was the No. 1 draft choice of the Boston Red Sox back in January, 1968 (picked before Cincinnati's George Foster) and spent four years playing minor league baseball.

He was later driving a catering truck for his father when the new NCAA rule allowing collegians to be amateurs in one sport and pros in another inspired him to go to East Los Angeles Junior College.

He went on to a become a 1975 honorable mention JC All-American quarterback at East L.A., leading his team to a 7-1 record before being hurt in the ninth game. In less than a full season he completed 100 of 192 passes (52.1%), for 1,512 yards and 12 TD's, with only 5 interceptions.

In 1974, as a 23-year-old JC freshman, Ransom and current USC fullback Lynn Cain led East L.A. to the California state JC title. Walt directed the team to a 9-1-2 record, completing 46 of 91 passes (50.6%) for 5 TD's with only 4 interceptions. In the championship game, a 33-14 victory over San Jose City College, he scored on runs of 6 and 14 yards and threw a 12-yard TD pass.

Ransom was the first team All-City quarterback and led South Gate to the Eastern League title way back in 1967, then hit .400 as the first team All-City shortstop before being drafted.

A spring, 1976 transfer to USC, Ransom was redshirted that year and played against only TCU in 1977, completing his only pass for seven yards. He's a physical education major whose favorite player is another oldtimer, Billy Kilmer.

TAILBACKS

(22) DWIGHT FORD — 5-11, 195, 22, Sr.

He runs the 40 in 4.5 seconds, he was a 9.6 sprinter in high school, and in 1977 Dwight Ford was a dazzling breakaway threat for the Trojans.

He had touchdown runs of 94 yards (Texas A&M, Bluebonnet Bowl), 70 yards (TCU), 63 (Stanford) and 53 (Washington State) and a non-scoring 62-yarder against California that set up another TD.

Ford's 94-yarder in the Bluebonnet Bowl is the longest scrimmage run in USC history — and he wound up that game with 152 yards on 13 carries for a Bluebonnet Bowl-record 11.7 rushing average. He had three other 100-yard games as a junior, ripping off 117 against TCU, 118 against Washington State and 124 against Stanford.

"Dwight has improved each year he's been at USC and become one of the best runners in the country," says coach John Robinson. "I'm very excited about him. He was a phenomenal breakaway runner last season.

"He's always had great speed, but the impressive thing is how hard he's worked to become stronger. At 195 pounds (up from 175 as a freshman) he's become a more powerful runner. He attacks the defense now, and once he gets into the secondary, he isn't tackled very often.

"He will have a great senior year."

Ford comes into 1978 with a seven-yard career rushing average, having run for 1,088 yards at USC on just 156 carries. He also goes into his senior season as the No. 4 kickoff returner in USC history with 660 yards on 32 runbacks (20.6 average).

His 1977 totals included 763 rushing yards (7.8 average), 9 catches for 83 yards and 6 rushing touchdowns. None of his TD's were easy. Besides the four long ones, he also ran in from the 14 and 9-yard lines.

Dwight missed practice last spring to recover from a stress fracture (slight cracked bone) in his right ankle. It should be fully healed — and in fact almost was by the end of spring drills.

In 1976 Ford was redshirted, after recovering slowly from a spring knee operation for torn cartilage. In 1975 and 1974 he ran for 157 and 168 yards, respectively. As a 1974 freshman he beat out three other first-year backs to back up Anthony Davis and Allen Carter.

"I was very disappointed in 1976 when I had to be redshirted," he says today. "When Ricky Bell got hurt that season, it might have been me who got to play, instead of Charles White. But it was good for me, too. It gave me a chance to mature.

"And I sure learned to hit the hole quickly in practice. When I got well I ran against the first team defense, and you couldn't hesitate. If you did, Gary Jeter, David Lewis and those guys gang tackled you."

What does he think about all those long runs?

"Once I get past the line of scrimmage I'm thinking touchdown. But for me it's mostly instinct. People will tell me afterward, 'Hey, that was a beautiful run.' I just say, 'It was?' The only thing I'm worrying about is somebody catching me.

"But it's a team effort. Good blocks make long runs possible, and on the longest ones, it's usually receivers who throw the vital blocks."

A public administration major, Ford came to USC as a 1973 prep All-American at Bell High, where he was Co-Los Angeles City Player of the Year (with Gardena's Kevin Cole). He broke all of Anthony Davis's city career and season rushing records, running for 3,831 yards and 40 touchdowns overall. As a senior he gained 1,651 yards on 221 carries (7.5 average) and scored 19 times. He netted 1,400 yards as a junior and 780 as a sophomore.

(12) CHARLES WHITE — 5-11, 183, 20, Jr.

In just two years, Charles White has become the fifth leading rusher in USC history (2,336 yards), and is on his way to becoming No. 1 — perhaps this year. The four runners ahead of him include two Heisman Trophy winners, O.J. Simpson and Mike Garrett, and two Heisman runner-ups, Ricky Bell and Anthony Davis. They all were All-Americans.

Charles needs only 1,389 yards to pass Davis (3,724) and become the top Trojan rusher ever — and he had more than that as a sophomore. In 1977, the latest great USC tailback reeled off 1,478 yards (5.2 average) on 285 carries, rushed for over 100 yards in 8 of 12 games and caught 9 passes for a 15.3 average. He ran for 7 TD's and caught screen passes for 2 more (22 and 25 yards).

"White should be an All-American," says John Robinson. "He's earned the right now to be classed in the great tradition of USC tailbacks. He's a threat to break a long run every time he touches the ball.

"But he's also become a much more physical runner, too. He's learned to become aggressive inside like Anthony Davis and turn a 3-yard gain into a 6-yard gain. Last spring he was our only healthy tailback half the time and we beat the heck out of him, but he beat the heck out of our defense, too. Nobody could tackle him.

"Charlie's got very good hands, too, and will be an effective receiver for us, as well as a runner. Overall, I expect him to get better every day."

Named to the Playboy All-American team this past summer, White wound up his sophomore season by dashing for 187 yards on 21 carries in USC's 47-28 victory over Texas A&M in the Bluebonnet Bowl. That was the second highest rushing total in the 19-year history of the game. Included in the outburst were a 62-yard run that set up a TD and a 25-yard scoring romp with a screen pass.

In 1977 Charles also had 100-yard games against Oregon State (188), Missouri (155), California (154), national champion Notre Dame (135), Washington State (128), Stanford (126) and Washington (101).

And he was named first team All-West Coast (UPI and AP) and first team All-Pac-8. In 1976, Charles was named first team Freshman All-American by the Football News.

White has been touched by greatness since he first donned a Trojan uniform. On his third USC carry ever he broke two tackles and ran 6 yards for a touchdown. On his sixth he ran 79 for another touchdown. All of that took place in USC's first 1976 game (Missouri).

He began that year as Ricky Bell's backup, but saw more and more action as Bell suffered a series of injuries, Charles finishing with 858 yards, 10 rushing TD's and a 5.5 average. Besides 79, he had scoring runs of 60 yards (Iowa) and 35 (Oregon State) and ran 34 with a screen pass to score an 11th TD (also Oregon State).

White had four 100-yard games as a freshman, running for 120 (Iowa), 107 (Oregon State), 136 (Stanford), (when he started for the injured Bell) and 114 in the 14-6 Rose Bowl win over Michigan.

"His performance in the Rose Bowl under all the pressure of that game — a possible national championship decider — was one of the finest individual efforts I've ever seen," said Robinson.

White went into the Rose Bowl against second-ranked Michigan when the game was just five minutes old, after Bell had been knocked unconscious. His brilliant effort included a 7-yard touchdown shot through right tackle that virtually clinched the game with 3:03 left.

And on USC's first Rose Bowl TD drive, Charlie carried 8 times for 35 yards and dove into the end zone on a fake, enabling quarterback Vince Evans to roll out from the one and score. As a freshman he also led the Trojans in kickoff returns with 14 for 295 yards (21.1 average).

At San Fernando High, White was Southern California Prep Athlete of the Year for 1975-76 and one of only three athletes to ever be named player of the year in two sports (football and track). In football he shared Los Angeles City Player of the Year honors with San Fernando and USC teammates Kevin Williams and Kenney Moore, was chosen Scholastic Coach All-American in 1975 and first team All-City in both 1974 and 1975.

Playing fullback in the San Fernando wishbone, White averaged 9.5 yards a carry as a senior and 9.9 as a junior, running for 1,155 yards in 1975 and 1,165 in 1974. In track he set a U.S. prep record for the 330-yard low hurdles (36.0) in the spring of 1976.

A speech communication major, White came to USC, he says, "to get a good education and be close to my grandparents."

Bertha and Jessie Leggett, his grandparents, raised him. "My grandmother always said, 'Be the best. Go to the best school,'" Charles says, "but she doesn't come to our games, because she doesn't enjoy all the people. She really doesn't know much about football, either, so I can't say she's impressed with me being the USC tailback."

He says he's learned a lot.

"When I was 7 and 8 and playing Pop Warner football, it took me quite a while to get over the idea that when someone tackles you, you shouldn't swing at him. Every time I get tackled, I got into a fight."

And he was influenced by Anthony Davis, who also went to San Fernando High School.

"He told me to run with my knees high, so I wouldn't get my legs messed up, and he always said you have to run hard — on every play."

He wants that college degree.

"It's important for me to get one," Charles says, "because it's something no one in my family's ever done before. It will be an accomplishment."

Away from football, Charles not only enjoys listening to music, but also likes to play the piano.

FULLBACKS

(21) LYNN CAIN — 6-1, 205, 23, Sr.

In 1977 Cain played both fullback and tailback for USC. In 1978 he begins the season as the No. 1 fullback.

"If you have to pick a candidate for the biggest surprise in West Coast college football this year, pick Cain," says coach John Robinson.

"He's the best runner we've had at fullback at USC in my five years as assistant and head coach. And he's developing into a very effective blocker. I expect Lynn to have an outstanding year for us — and I think he'll be a successful pro, too."

Before the 1977 season, Robinson predicted Cain would really earn his scholarship — and he did. Playing both tailback and fullback, the muscular Cain ran for 375 yards (5.4 average) and lost just two. In short yardage situations, both at midfield and the goal line, he often got the ball and responded with 7 touchdowns and a flock of first downs. He also had 31 of USC's 32 punt returns for a 7.0 average (third best in the Pac-8) and was No. 2 on the team in kickoff returns with 6 for a 20-yard average. And he caught 6 passes for a 9.8 average.

His best 1977 games included 87 yards on 6 carries against TCU, 61 on 12 tries against Oregon and 60 on 9 carries against Missouri.

"With his running ability and speed, we want to give him a chance to get the ball as much as possible," says Robinson.

Cain came to USC in the fall of 1975 after being named the California JC Player of the Year in 1974 when he led East Los Angeles JC to a 9-1-2 record and the state championship. He was also first team junior college All-American.

The state large schools rushing champ that season, Cain ran for 1,666 yards and 19 touchdowns, carrying 295 times, averaging 5.6 a carry and catching 7 passes (20.1 average) for another TD. He was MVP in the Southern Conference and ran for 138 yards on 31 carries in East L.A.'s 33-14 championship win over San Jose City College in the Potato Bowl.

Cain lost part of the 1975 season at USC after an operation for torn knee ligaments and was redshirted in 1976 after undergoing a second operation (to repair an old high school injury) on his left knee just before the season. He came back in less than three months to play the part of Michigan's Rob Lytle against the first team defense in Rose Bowl drills.

An All-Eastern League defensive back at Roosevelt High School, Cain wasn't recruited out of high school. "They all said I was too short or too small," he recalls. "So my high school coach suggested I sit out a year (1973) and work, which I did. I gained about 20 pounds, grew 2 inches and then went to East L.A. in 1974."

Away from football, Lynn says he enjoys relaxing alone, listening to music. And he gets inspired playing ping pong.

(34) RICKY JOHNSON — 6-2½, 215, 21, Jr.

A year and a half ago, Johnson had spent his entire USC career as a linebacker on the so-called opponents' team which works against the regular offense in practice. He was going nowhere. Switched to fullback in the spring of 1977, he turned out to be the team's biggest surprise of the drills.

"Ricky has made dramatic improvement since his switch to fullback last year," says John Robinson. "He's a solid football player, and fullback suits him just fine, because he doesn't mind knocking your block off. He'll share the position with Lynn Cain, and I expect him to be very successful.

"He's intelligent and tough, and he's developing into the classic USC blocking fullback."

Johnson lettered at fullback in 1977, playing 43 minutes and carrying the ball 4 times for 15 yards. He also caught a pass for 3 yards. He was tough enough that first spring to win a spot playing with a broken left hand.

Born in Little Rock, Arkansas, Ricky came to USC from Crenshaw High in Los Angeles where he was All-Western League offensive tackle and also played linebacker. He caught for the baseball team, too.

An education major, Johnson enjoys playing tennis, basketball and backgammon. "But I'd prefer playing them all with a young lady," he says.

(37) TONY OLIVARRIA — 6-2, 214, 21, Jr.

Tony played 25 minutes as a non-letterman in 1977, carrying 3 times for 14 yards. He was redshirted in 1976 and played briefly as a freshman in 1975.

Olivarria came to the Trojans from Colton High School where he was first team All-CIF 3-A at tight end in 1974 and also played fullback. He had a 95-yard touchdown run on an end-around play. He also made the All-Ivy League team as a forward in basketball and took the league championship in the long jump with a leap of 23-7. The next summer he played on the North team in the Shrine Game.

A speech communication major, Olivarria says his favorite class is "essentials of argumentation." He's also an avid snow skier.

WIDE RECEIVERS

(86) RAYMOND BUTLER — 6-3, 198, 21, Jr.

Recruited by Texas, Nebraska and other top schools, Ray Butler transferred instead to USC last spring — from Wharton County Junior College in Texas — and dazzled Trojan coaches in spring practice.

"He performed as well in the spring as any JC transfer I've ever seen at USC," said John Robinson. "He has outstanding speed and will be a great deep threat for us. But he's a physical wide receiver, too, and because he combines both size and speed, he has great potential."

Butler has so much potential, in fact, that he came into fall listed equal at split end with last year's starting flanker, Calvin Sweeney, and a former JC national receiving leader, Dan Garcia.

At Wharton County JC Butler was named first team All-Texas Junior College Football Conference in both 1976 and 1977, catching 35 passes for 9 touchdowns as a sophomore. He also returned kickoffs, kicked conversions and kicked off.

A physical education major, Butler was born in Port Lawrence, Texas, and played at Sweeney High School in Sweeney, Texas.

(40) JEFF FISHER — 5-11, 180, 20, So.

A 1976 redshirt as a freshman, Fisher appeared briefly in one game in 1977. But he impressed the coaches with his pass catching last spring, playing flanker.

He came to USC from Taft High School, where he was a first team All-Los Angeles City pick at wide receiver and honorable mention Scholastic Coach All-American. He set a Los Angeles city receiving record for one game with 13 catches for 284 yards against Chatsworth, scoring on plays of 58 and 80 yards. He caught 56 passes for 806 yards as a senior.

Fisher also played defensive back, intercepted 6 passes, made 50 tackles and wound up being named Co-Player of the Year in the West Valley League. He was chosen to play in the Shrine Game and scored a touchdown. A public administration-speech communication major, Jeff has an overall 3.25 grade point average. He says he also enjoys skiing and golf.

(26) DAN GARCIA — 6-1, 170, 20, Jr.

The nation's leading JC receiver in 1975, Garcia was USC's No. 2 split end behind Randy Simmrin going into fall drills in 1977. But he separated a shoulder before the Missouri game and was redshirted.

"He came back to have a great spring," says John Robinson "and has two good years ahead of him. He has outstanding hands and runs patterns very well. As a catcher, he reminds me of Simmrin and Johnny McKay. I expect him to play an important role on our team."

Coming into the fall, Garcia was listed equal at split end with Calvin Sweeney, last year's starter at flanker, and JC transfer Raymond Butler.

At Pierce Junior College, Garcia led the country in both catches (66) and touchdowns (15) in 1975, running his passes 1,069 yards. In 1976 as a sophomore he came back to grab 53 more for 741 yards and 5 TD's. His career average on 119 catches was 15.2. In 1976 he was named second team All-State (California), honorable mention All-American, and in both '75 and '76 was picked on the

All-Metropolitan Conference first team.

His coach at Pierce, Jim Pendleton, said, "Garcia was the best wide receiver to come out of here since Hal Bedsole (ex-USC All-American.)"

Born in Seoul, Korea, Garcia played at Los Angeles High School. He's now a physical education major who says his favorite class is literature, and he can relax by either reading or listening to music. He calls Muhammad Ali his biggest sports hero, "because he fights for the big cash."

(25) MICHAEL HAYES — 5-11, 170, 22, Jr.

A letterman wide receiver last year when he caught 5 passes for 55 yards, Hayes came into the fall as the No. 2 flanker behind Kevin Williams. He had been redshirted in 1976 and played briefly as a 1975 freshman, but the coaches feel he had an excellent spring practice.

"Michael is small, but he has outstanding athletic ability," says John Robinson. "He's a good jumper, his catching has improved a great deal, and he's a great running threat after making the catch.

"He'll also return punts, and if needed, he could play tailback."

Hayes never played wide receiver before coming to USC. At San Diego High School he was the San Diego Player of the Year at tailback and an honorable mention All-American (Scholastic Coach) pick. He ran for 3,201 yards in his career, getting 1,418 as a junior and 1,200 as a senior. He had seven games over 200 yards.

A public administration major, Michael says O.J. Simpson, Mike Garrett and Lynn Swann influenced him to become a Trojan.

(24) CALVIN SWEENEY — 6-2, 184, 23, Sr.

The starting flanker in 1977, Sweeney was an explosive receiver. He wound up with 33 receptions (second on the team only to all-time Trojan receiver Randy Simmrin) and ran his passes 564 yards for a 17.1 average.

He had TD catches of 40 and 29 yards in USC's 47-28 victory over Texas A&M in the Bluebonnet Bowl and a total of 14 receptions of 20 yards or longer. The spring-legged junior caught 5 passes for 114 yards and a touchdown against national champion Notre Dame, 5 for 81 yards against Missouri and 4 each against Oregon State, Alabama, California and Washington. He scored 6 times, and his 10-yard TD catch against Alabama — although a defensive back hit him in the back the second he caught the ball — was a big part of USC's comeback to near victory.

Sweeney missed spring practice following off-season knee surgery for torn cartilage. The knee had bothered him on and off for years, but he finally wrecked it dancing on his birthday in January — honest. He should be healthy this fall.

"Calvin improved steadily through last season and is ready to take his place as one of USC's best receivers ever," says John Robinson. "He's got good size, good speed and he can jump. And he's not afraid to risk his body to catch the ball."

Sweeney came to USC in 1976 and was redshirted that season. He transferred with assistant coach Bob Toledo from University of California at Riverside, when that school gave up football.

On a 1975 league championship team at Riverside, Sweeney, just a sophomore, was his team's No. 2 catcher with 21 for 274 yards, a 13-yard average and 7 touchdowns. He also carried 5 times for 53 yards (10.6 average) and returned 13 kickoffs for a 21-yard average. As a college freshman, Sweeney played for Riverside City College where he was All-Mission Conference, averaged 28 yards a catch and was a reserve forward for the basketball team.

Calvin went to Perris Union High School and was a wide receiver, center on the basketball team and high hurdler for the track team.

He's a business major at USC, his favorite class is marketing, and he still loves to play basketball, along with riding his bike. He has 5 sisters and 8 brothers. Sweeney today considers himself a very lucky man indeed. When he was a college freshman he was hospitalized for internal bleeding and nearly died.

"But I knew I wasn't going to die," he says. "I kept praying. I had faith in God."

(8) KEVIN WILLIAMS — 5-8, 155, 20, So.

The starting flanker this season, Kevin Williams is one of the fastest football players in the country — a two-event sprint scorer for USC's NCAA champion track team last spring. Coaches consider his football potential awesome.

"Kevin will have a major impact on West Coast football," says John Robinson. "He's a football player who happens to run fast — instead of a sprinter who happens to play football.

"He came to USC as a Wishbone running back, but he's developing the skills to become a truly great receiver. He has excellent hands, he's ambitious, and he seems to improve daily. I'm very excited about him."

Robinson's enthusiasm is well founded. As a trackman last spring, Williams was sixth in the NCAA 100-meter final, running 10.38, after a sizzling 10.28 to get second in a semi-final heat. In that heat he edged Texas football player Johnny Jones, a 1976 Olympic gold medal winner (400-meter relay).

Kevin was also the leadoff runner on USC's national championship 400-meter relay team, which ran 39.31 seconds in the NCAA meet, ran 39.27 to win the Pac-8 title and ran 38.85 in the UCLA dual meet — the fastest time in history by an All-American collegiate team.

Williams utilized his speed well last football season, too, when as Calvin Sweeney's backup, he averaged 23.6 yards on 10 catches, including 40 and 27-yard TD bombs in the win over UCLA that sent the Trojans to the Bluebonnet Bowl. The 40-yarder was a diving, fingertip grab in the end zone.

The 5-8 Williams — nicknamed "Bug" by his teammates — also snagged a 44-yard touchdown pass against Oregon and made an over-the-shoulder, falling 42-yard catch that set up a field goal against Texas A&M in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

He was awarded another year by the Pac-8 last spring, because of a separated shoulder in his freshman year of 1976 which benched him after he'd played less than 5 minutes in two early season games.

At San Fernando High, Williams was 1975 Los Angeles City Tri-Player of the Year with San Fernando and USC teammates Charles White and Kenney Moore. He was named to the Parade All-American team as a senior, and led the city in rushing (1,402 yards) and scoring (151 points, 22 TD's). He averaged 11.2 a carry. He was first team All-City on offense that season and first team All-City on defense as a junior, although he also rushed for 876 yards and a 7.2 average that year. San Fernando won back-to-back city championships in 1974 and 1975.

As a junior, Kevin was California state 100-yard dash champion, running 9.4, and was named City Track Athlete of the Year.

Williams' biggest sports hero is another USC football player-trackman who ran on the relay team — O.J. Simpson.

TIGHT ENDS

(89) HOBY BRENNER — 6-5, 225, 19, So.

Brenner saw just eight minutes of action as a 1977 freshman, but he's one of a trio of Trojan sophomore tight ends considered to have great futures. He missed the last three-fourths of spring practice after surgery for torn ligaments suffered early in the drills.

"If Hoby's knee is sufficiently healed, he'll play an important role on our team," says John Robinson. "He's a natural athlete with the ability to play several positions."

Brenner did just that at Fullerton High School, playing tailback, fullback and split end on offense and linebacker and defensive lineman on defense. As a senior, he was named to the All-Orange League first team, carried the ball 103 times for 496 yards and caught 23 passes for 299 more. He was his team's MVP in both football and basketball, making the all-league team in basketball at center. He also long jumped, threw the discus and competed in the triple jump for the track team.

Hoby says he still likes to play basketball in the off-season and also enjoys fishing and going to the beach.

(85) JAMES HUNTER — 6-4, 225, 21, So.

In two years at USC — he was redshirted in 1977 — Hunter didn't see one second of action, but he did enough damage on the practice field to have all the coaches excited.

"James has the physical gifts to become a great player," says John Robinson. "He worked very hard last spring to refine his skills and his improvement was impressive. If it continues, there's no limit to his potential.

"He's big, he's physical like last year's starter, Billy Gay, and he has the speed to beat you deep."

Hunter came to USC from Santa Barbara High School, where he was a basketball star, making second team All-CIF as a junior at center. He played tight end as a sophomore and junior, but elected not to play football as a senior because of basketball.

A business major, James was born in Oklahoma and says he enjoys dancing and reading.

(80) VIC RAKHSHANI — 6-3, 225, 20, So.

A transfer this fall to USC, Rakhshani has already proven himself on the major college level. As a 1976 freshman at San Jose State, he caught 24 passes for 307 yards (12.8 average) and 3 touchdowns, with a long of 33 yards.

Football News named him to its Freshman All-American team. San Jose's coaches voted him the team's Rookie of the Year.

Suffering an injured achilles tendon in spring drills in 1977, Rakhshani left San Jose State for Golden West College where he went to school for a year but didn't play football.

"Vic comes to us with great credentials, and we feel he can develop into an outstanding player," says John Robinson. "He has the physical makeup of a top tight end and the finesse of a wide receiver. We're convinced he's got a chance to be the best pass catcher USC's had at tight end in quite a while. And he's a very good blocker. He should have an immediate impact on our team."

At Edison High School in Huntington Beach, Rakhshani was first team All-CIF 4-A at tight end in 1975 and also the league champion in the shot put. He's an outdoorsman and loves water and snow skiing, surfing and hunting.

TACKLES

(64) BOB ALBRECHT — 6-7, 255, 21, Jr.

A fall, 1977 transfer from Solano Junior College, Albrecht was redshirted last season as a defensive tackle. Shifted to offensive tackle in the spring, he showed potential but suffered a slipped disc in his upper back near the neck. At presstime, it wasn't known if he would be ready to return in the fall.

The brother of former No. 1 draft pick Ted Albrecht of California (now with the Chicago Bears), Bob played defensive tackle for two years at Solano and also started at center for the basketball team. At Vallejo High School, he didn't play football, competing in swimming (freestyle events) and basketball as a center and winning All-North Bay League honors.

Born in Freeport, Illinois, Albrecht still loves to swim in his free time and also says one of his favorite hobbies is "drinking good beer."

(77) ANTHONY MUNOZ — 6-7, 280, 20, Jr.

Anthony Munoz — all 280 pounds of him — is so fast that as a freshman tackle he once beat tailback Charles White downfield on a 34-yard scoring screen pass, knocking the last defender out of the way at the five-yard line. He's on his way to being a three-year starter, four-year letterman and perhaps: USC's second winner of the Outland Trophy.

"Munoz," says John Robinson, "might be the best offensive tackle in America right now. He's one of the great football players I've ever been associated with — at any position. He's just awesome physically. He's in a class with ex-Trojan All-Americans like Roy Yary, Marvin Powell and John Vella. He's got to be an All-American himself this season — and to my mind he's an Outland Trophy candidate."

Yary in 1967 was the only Trojan who's won the Outland — awarded annually to the outstanding college lineman by vote of the Football Writers Association.

What makes Munoz — who starts at weakside tackle — so good is not just size. He's an outstanding athlete, period. Last spring as a sophomore he pitched as a reserve on USC's national championship baseball team. In six appearances, Munoz posted a 1-0 pitching record, striking out 11 in 13 innings.

At Chaffey High School, where he was a unanimous 1975 All-American (Coach & Athlete, Parade, Scholastic Coach) lineman going both ways, he was named first team All-CIF 4-A as a defensive tackle. He also averaged 40 yards as the team's punter, was a second team All--CIF first baseman with a .378 batting average and an All-Citrus Belt League forward in basketball.

"The No. 1 asset you need to be successful as an offensive lineman at USC's level is quick feet," says offensive line coach Hudson Houck. "And Munoz has very quick feet. He's also got great straight-ahead speed, too.

"He's an extremely good run blocker, but that quickness gives him great lateral and backward mobility for pass protection blocking, too. He's intelligent and a good listener, working to improve all the time."

Munoz was the starting weakside tackle for the Trojans as a sophomore in 1977, winning second team All-West Coast honors on both the AP and UPI teams. As a 1976 freshman he lettered and played 77 minutes in the first 9 games before suffering torn knee ligaments and undergoing surgery.

Actually, Anthony came late to football.

"Earlier in my life I thought all I wanted was to be a major league baseball player," he said. "But I made the decision to play football when I came out of high school, and I'm sticking with it. I can see that's where my future is.

"However, when I was young, I was always too big for my age group in Pop Warner football, so they never let me play. My size wasn't a problem in baseball, and I've been playing that longer, since I was six or seven years old.

"I played with USC's team last spring because I still love the game and wanted to prove to myself that I could play it in college."

Munoz got married last spring and his wife's name is Dianne. He says he chose to attend USC "because of its winning tradition," and claims the toughest player he's ever faced is right on the practice field — nose guard Rich Dimler.

In 1976 Page was the starting weakside tackle for the Trojans as a sophomore — on an 11-1 team that wound up ranked second in the nation. Since then he's had two knee operations for ligament and cartilage damage (spring and fall, 1977) and his future is up in the air.

"I admire Otis very much," says John Robinson. "He's got great determination and has fought hard to come back from successive knee operations. If he's healthy, he gives us, in effect, three starting tackles (with Anthony Munoz and Keith Van Horne), and it's important that he come back. His leadership is also crucial to our team."

As a 1974 freshman, Page played 45 minutes behind All-American Marvin Powell at strongside tackle, then played just 8 minutes before injuries forced him out in 1975. USC successfully petitioned to have the year restored. 1976 was the season he started, and USC coaches felt he was outstanding the last half of the season, particularly in the Rose Bowl against Michigan.

He suffered his first knee injury in spring, 1977, when nose guard Rich Dimler was blocked by another player into the side of his knee. And he had surgery after a week of drills. In the fall, Page was able to play just 31 minutes as a second teamer before undergoing his second operation.

At California's Saratoga High School, Page made every All-American team and was selected outstanding lineman on the Parade All-American squad. He was also picked on the Coach & Athlete Cum Laude team for combined scholastic and athletic achievement.

A combined speech-biology major, Page was born in Bangor, Maine. He says he enjoys "surfing, playing the guitar, barbecuing steaks and even hang gliding."

(75) ALLEN PUGH — 6-4, 240, 20, So.

Pugh lettered, playing 38 minutes as a defensive tackle in 1977, and made half a dozen tackles, including one for a 10-yard loss. In the spring he was shifted to weakside offensive tackle.

Allen was redshirted as a freshman in 1976, after coming from San Marcos High in Northern California, where he was a Scholastic Coach All-American and second team All-CIF 4-A pick as an offensive tackle. He also made the All-Channel League team two straight years and was an all-conference pick one year as a basketball forward and baseball first baseman.

A business administration major, Allen enjoys drawing and playing basketball and tennis.

(68) KEITH VAN HORNE — 6-7, 250, 21, So.

The starting strongside tackle going into the fall, Van Horne lettered and played 40 minutes as the graduated John Schuhmacher's 1977 backup. He first impressed the coaches in the spring of 1977, when Otis Page had surgery, and he got a big opportunity. Van Horne himself missed practice last spring, following off-season surgery for repair of a fractured bone in his left foot.

"He'll be ready to play in the fall," says John Robinson, "and even though he has little playing experience, he has tremendous potential. He reminds me of former USC All-American Steve Riley — he's tall, a good athlete, and he's developing all the time. He has great balance for his size, and as he gains experience he could develop into one of the great USC tackles ever."

Keith was awarded another year of eligibility by the Pac-8 last spring, because a stress fracture in that left foot limited him to just two games (Missouri and Iowa) and 4 minutes of playing time as a 1976 freshman.

A two-year All-Freeway League choice as a tight end and defensive lineman at Fullerton Union High School, Van Horne also played center in basketball and was a 59-foot shot putter in high school.

Born in Mount Lebanon, Pennsylvania, Van Horne is a broadcast journalism major with a 3.30 grade point average.

GUARDS

(71) BRAD BUDDE — 6-5, 253, 20, Jr.

On his way to being a four-year starter, Budde is the No. 1 strongside guard and has already been heavily honored as a freshman and sophomore. In 1977 he made the All-Pac-8 first team, was named first team All-West Coast by AP and second team All-Coast by UPI and even picked up honorable mention All-American honors from AP.

The son of former Kansas City Chief All-Pro offensive guard Ed Budde, Brad was the first freshman to start in a season opener for USC (1976) since World War II. He got his chance when weakside guard Pat Howell was hurt in fall drills, and the two then alternated at the position the rest of the season. For his efforts, he was named Frosh Lineman of the Year by the Football News.

As a sophomore Budde played 255 minutes as the starting strongside guard.

"Brad has continued to improve and has developed into one of the best guards in the country," says John Robinson. "He pulls well, he's extremely aggressive, he's strong, and he's intense. If he continues getting better at the same rate, he'll be just an outstanding player. He's another of our candidates for national honors."

A public administration major, Budde was born in Detroit and came to USC from Rockhurst High School in Kansas City, Mo. He made the Parade and Coach & Athlete All-American teams and was the only 1976 Trojan freshman to make Coach & Athlete's "Super Eleven." He led his team defensively as a senior with 111 tackles. He's now taken to Southern California: he says he loves going to the beach.

Budde lists his father as his favorite sports hero and says of the now-retired 14-year veteran of the Chiefs:

"I don't see how anyone can compare to him, because I consider him the greatest guard to ever play the game . . . not only because of his ability but because of his heart. He was always going 110 percent.

"But I'm trying to be better than he was, and he expects me to be. You know, times have changed. He was 225 pounds, and I was 250 my first year of college. Everyone is better now than 15 years ago. If I can keep trying to be as good as dad was and never be happy with myself, I'll keep improving. This is what turns good football players into great ones."

(65) SCOTT FRASER — 6-2, 240, 21, Jr.

Fraser is the Trojans' third guard behind Pat Howell and Brad Budde and can play either on the strong or weak side of the line. As a 1977 sophomore he played more minutes (119) as a letterman than any other reserve lineman.

"Scott doesn't have the size of Howell or Budde," says John Robinson, "but he has great balance and has worked very hard to become an excellent blocker. He's a very good athlete."

Fraser redshirted in 1976, after appearing briefly as a freshman center in 1975. At Riverside Poly High School he was twice a first team All-CIF selection at center, making the 4-A team as a junior and 3-A team as a senior when his school's league changed classifications.

He was also the 1974 Riverside County Player of the Year and made 25 tackles against Colton as a linebacker.

A business administration major, Fraser is an ardent backpacker and water skier. He sheepishly remembers a game at Riverside Poly when he got hit in the head, was in a fog, and got his team 25 yards in offside penalties before they took him out of the game.

(66) PAT HOWELL — 6-6, 255, 21, Sr.

The leader of USC's offensive line, Howell made the Playboy All-American team this summer, and that, says John Robinson, should become a habitual honor this fall.

"Pat is simply outstanding," says Robinson. "He should definitely be an All-American. He's got great body balance and speed for a man his size and tremendous vision — almost like a top back's. Because of that speed and vision, he's a great pulling guard on running plays, but he's also a tremendous pass blocker.

"He's made significant improvement each year he's been here, and the other players consider him a leader. He's a man I admire."

Howell missed spring practice, following January surgery for a fractured ankle and torn ligaments, suffered in USC's victory in the Bluebonnet Bowl. But he was jogging by late spring and expected to be in top shape by fall.

A three-year starter, Pat is the Trojans' weakside guard, where last season he played 269 minutes — most of any returning player on the team — and was named first team All-West Coast (UPI) and first team All-Pac-8. He was the only member of the offensive line never to miss a day of practice in the fall because of injury.

As a 1976 sophomore he came back off a severe sprained ankle, which knocked him out of the opener and gave Brad Budde a chance to start, to alternate as starter with Budde the rest of the way on USC's 11-1 team.

As a 1975 freshman, Howell played 37 minutes behind Donnie Hickman.

Offensive line coach Hudson Houck says of Howell, "Not only is he faster than most offensive linemen you'll see in college, but he's also the strongest offensive player on our team. His improvement in the last year has been spectacular."

A unanimous prep All-American at Fresno High (Parade, Scholastic Coach, Coach & Athlete), Pat was the only Californian picked on Coach & Athlete's 1974 "Super Eleven," or top 11 prep players in the country. He played both offensive and defensive tackle, was Northern California Lineman of the Year and threw the discus 195-4 for the track team.

A business major, Pat enjoys water and snow skiing. He is also intrigued by his position.

"You have to be physical in the offensive line, but it has to be controlled," he says. "If you don't have control, you'll get beat.

"I particularly love being the pulling guard on a running play. The most exciting thing in the world for me is to be running into an open field with the tailback behind me and see a tackler come into my line of vision, knowing my block will spring the back."

(95) VIC JACKSON — 6-3, 230, 21, So.

A fullback as a 1976 freshman — he ran for 53 yards on a dozen carries and was one of five freshmen to letter — Jackson tired of football and quit the team in fall drills before the 1977 season.

He came back with fresh enthusiasm last spring but proved too slow for fullback. He was moved to guard, showed potential and was tentatively listed as No. 2 strongside guard going into the fall.

At San Marcos High, Jackson was an All-Channel League pick as running back and slotback on offense and linebacker on defense. He also wrestled and was on the track team. Vic says his favorite class at USC has been philosophy and says he loves the outdoor life.

(61) RAY ZOLLER — 6-3, 255, 21, Jr.

Ray was a non-letterman on the 1977 Trojans, playing 9 minutes at nose guard and making 3 tackles — 2 for 6 yards in losses. He was moved to offensive guard in the spring and listed as a reserve on the weak side.

Zoller redshirted in 1976, after undergoing surgery for torn knee ligaments, and played briefly as a 1975 nose guard.

Born in Macon, Ga., Zoller is a business major and came to USC from Troy High in Orange County. He played offensive and defensive tackle there and was an All-Freeway League selection. He still recalls fondly the day Troy High upset defending CIF champion Los Altos in 1974. He's an avid skier who says his favorite athlete is Austrian Olympic skiing champ Franz Klammer.

CENTERS

(62) CHRIS FOOTE — 6-4, 240, 22, Jr.

Listed as co-starter at center with Brad Green, Foote lettered and played 43 minutes as now-graduated Gary Bethel's backup at center in 1977. Now he's ready to make his own mark.

"Chris has matured dramatically," says John Robinson. "He's the quickest, most athletic center I've seen here in years. He's worked hard to rehabilitate himself from two knee injuries, and he's ready to be a fine player for us."

Foote was redshirted as a 1975 Trojan freshman, following knee surgery for an injury he got before coming to USC. In 1976 he played a dozen minutes as a reserve center, and then underwent another operation for torn ligaments after that season. He's had no problems since.

A Parade and Scholastic Coach All-American at Fairview High in Boulder, Colo., Foote was an offensive tackle and middle guard as a prep and also wrestled, put the shot (57 feet) and threw the discus (175 feet). He was born in Louisville, Ky.

Chris is a sociology major at USC and an avid snow and water skier. He says Trojan teammate Rich Dimler at nose guard is the toughest player he's faced so far in college. He may be an excellent athlete, but he does remember an embarrassing moment in high school.

"We were running on the field," he says, "and I tripped and fell flat on my face."

(52) BRAD GREEN — 6-2, 245, 22, Jr.

In 1977 USC recruited several outstanding junior college transfers, and one of the most impressive was Brad Green from Orange Coast College. He was redshirted last fall, but goes into the 1978 season listed as co-starter at center with Chris Foote.

At Orange Coast, Green was first team All-South Coast Conference and MVP on the team.

"Brad is a very intelligent, very determined player who's an outstanding pass blocker," says John Robinson. "He reminds me of Dave Brown of our 1972 national champions. With Green and Foote, we look strong at center."

At Estancia High School, Green was second team All-CIF 3-A center as a senior in 1974 and also first team All-Orange County. A business major at USC he says he enjoys studying theology and the Bible. His most thrilling moment in sports was an easy choice. Says Green: "It's being given a chance to play at USC."

KICKERS

(3) FRANK JORDAN — 5-8, 165, 22, Sr.

UCLA will never forget USC's Frank Jordan. The cool, little placekicker hit 14 field goals in 19 attempts in 1977 to tie USC's single-season record, but he'll be forever remembered for kicking USC into the Bluebonnet Bowl and UCLA out of the Rose Bowl.

Frank beat the Bruins, 29-27, in the season's final game with a 38-yard field goal with two seconds left on the clock. It went straight down the middle, although Jordan, now-graduated holder Mike Carey and the rest of the kicking team had to sprint on the field and set up — because there were no timeouts left.

For the season Jordan kicked 12 field goals in 13 attempts inside the 40.

"Frank's not one of those guys who can kick from 60 yards away, but he's remarkably accurate inside the 40," says coach John Robinson. "And the new college rule which returns the ball to the line of scrimmage after every missed kick outside the 20 will shorten everyone's range. It makes Frank one of the top kickers in America.

"I also like the fact he's such an involved member of our squad. Sometimes kickers become aloof, but Frank's one of our most popular members. And, as the players know, his kick against UCLA last year indicates he can perform under pressure."

Jordan — who kicks soccer style — has a history of coolness under fire. He was twice a first team member of the CCAA all-star team, playing on University of California at Riverside's unbeaten league champions in 1974 and 1975, before that school dropped football. For Riverside in 1974 he won three games with field goals in the last two minutes, including a 41-yarder with 31 seconds left that beat Cal State Northridge, 17-15, to clinch the league title.

In two years at Riverside, Jordan hit 20 of 31 field goals and 56 of 61 extra points. He later went to San Jose State as a walk-on, was refused a scholarship and so enrolled at San Francisco City College, where he sat out the 1976 season. He transferred to USC in the fall of 1977.

In his only season at USC, Jordan also tied the school record of three field goals in a game (against TCU and UCLA) and had successful long kicks of 49 and 45 yards (against TCU). Ironically, he was a perfect 23-for-23 in conversions until the climactic UCLA game when he missed the only two he tried.

What does Jordan think of the pressure?

"Most of kicking is psychological," he says, "and so when I go out for a field goal or an extra point I blank out everyone. I don't even notice the crowd.

"Sometimes in the back of my head I can barely hear the linemen grunting and groaning, but that's about it. I try to think back to practice and visualize my good kicks going through.

"And I try to stay ready. I follow what's going on during the game and keep loose by doing stretching exercises."

Born in Glasgow, Scotland, Jordan played football, soccer and golf at Riordan High in San Francisco and still lists golf as his favorite pastime. He's a business major at USC.

(1) ROB KERR — 6-0, 195, 19, Jr.

An unrecruited walkon, Kerr won a job as a 1976 freshman and wound up kicking off for the Trojans in the last five games. Last year he did all the kicking off for USC — a total of 61 kicks.

Rob was an All-Mission Valley League placekicker and tight end at San Gabriel High, but spent the summer before the '76 season pestering USC's coaches for a chance to try out. The first four days of practice he kicked on another field with his girl friend retrieving the ball. Then he got an official tryout and won a uniform. He got his first chance in a game against Stanford.

At San Gabriel High, Kerr once hit a 43-yard field goal and also was on the track team, long jumping 21 feet and running a 10.3 100. He's a psychology major who says his favorite USC class has been abnormal psychology. Away from football, he enjoys fishing and handicapping the horses.

(4) MARTY KING — 6-2, 210, 22, Sr.

A fall, 1977 transfer to USC — like Frank Jordan — King handled all the punting for the Trojans, averaging 39.9 yards on 49 kicks. He had a long of 57 yards.

"Marty was an effective punter last year," says John Robinson, "and the season of experience should enable him to become one of the better punters on the Coast. He will also hold this year for Jordan's placekicks."

A good athlete, King was the fifth leading JC punter in the nation in 1976, averaging 41.9 yards on 46 kicks for West Valley Junior College. He was also the second leading punter in California. He was a first team All-Golden Gate Conference selection and was second team all-state as a punter. He holds two West Valley punting records — highest single season average (41.9) and highest single game average (50.0 on 6 kicks against San Mateo). He also played some fullback and ran 8 times for 96 yards.

At Bellarmine High School, King was a first team West Catholic League pick in both football (played quarterback, fullback, tailback, punted and placekicked) and baseball (pitched). At USC he's a public administration major. Away from football he enjoys target shooting, golf and playing the guitar.

What's been his most humorous moment in football? "Last year," says King, "I shanked a punt terribly, but it rolled dead on Missouri's five-yard line. As I came off the field, coach Robinson grinned at me and said, 'Just tell everyone you planned it that way.'"

DEFENSE

DOWN LINEMEN

(73) DAVID CORSINOTTI — 6-3, 250, 19, So.

Corsinotti didn't letter, but did play 25 minutes as a freshman defensive tackle last season. He worked at both nose guard and tackle last spring.

Double and triple teamed every game as a defensive tackle at Riordan High School in 1976, Corsinotti still led his team in tackles with 75 and sacks with 13 and forced other teams to run away from him. He made the All-West Catholic Athletic League first team.

Nicknamed "Bruno" by his teammates, Corsinotti says he enjoys "weight lifting, sleeping and partying."

(92) RICH DIMLER — 6-6, 255, 22, Sr.

In his second year as the starting nose guard, Dimler has been called by defensive line coach Marv Goux "the toughest player I've seen in 22 years of coaching." He may be big and tough, but he's also an articulate young man with a dry sense of humor delivered through a thick New Jersey accent. He's also an excellent football player.

"Rich is one of the great defensive linemen in America," says John Robinson. "He's strong, extremely aggressive, intelligent, uses his hands well and technically, he's excellent. He's what I call a very efficient player.

"And he's one of our top leaders — both on and off the field."

Born and raised in Bayonne, N.J., Dimler was home for semester break last winter and fell off his porch shoveling snow. He broke his ankle and had surgery to set the bone and repair injured ligaments. So he missed spring practice and spent the time watching and listening and then helping to coach the younger players. He says, however, he expects to be in the best shape of his career by fall.

USC's defensive linemen are not expected to make a lot of tackles — they're supposed to keep the offensive line off the linebackers, so the 'backers can bring down ball carriers. But Dimler still made 66 (seventh on the team) last season for the Pac-8's leading defense, while also recovering a fumble. He's on his way to being a four-year letterman.

The big lineman had 10 tackles in the Bluebonnet Bowl-clinching victory over UCLA and 10 against Alabama. As a 1976 sophomore he was the leading defensive reserve in minutes played (140) and made 52 tackles (ninth on the team) for a great defense on an 11-1 team. He played both tackle and nose guard that season and started a game at each. As a freshman letterman he played 68 minutes behind All-American Gary Jeter.

At Bayonne High Dimler was a unanimous prep All-American (Parade, Coach & Athlete, Scholastic Coach), going both ways at tackle. As a senior he made 66 unassisted tackles, knocked down 6 passes and had 9 quarterback sacks.

At USC Dimler — whose nickname is "Dimmo" — is a speech communication major. And he is a tough guy.

"I don't like winning those 49-7 games," he says. "I like games that are 8-7, 14-10, games in which you have to fight hard — but fair — all day. The human body is made to be abused. It's a little too soft. I don't feel I've been in a game unless I feel pain the next day."

His background in Bayonne was rugged.

"Most of my high school games were like wars," he says. "Fights broke out all the time. And you should have seen the facilities. We were the only team in the league with an all-grass field. The others were mostly dirt, and one had a sewer plate right on the 50-yard line.

"As for the town itself, there were more cops than teenagers. Everybody was in a gang. I don't miss it much."

Asked why he came to USC, however, a continent away from Bayonne, Dimler said: "I knew if I could play here, I could play anywhere."

(96) MYRON LAPKA — 6-4, 245, 22, Jr.

A first-game injury to Vinny Van Dyke gave sophomore Myron Lapka his big chance last season — and he took it. He started at defensive tackle in the second game and kept the job the rest of the year, making 45 tackles (eighth on the team). Probably the strongest man on the defense, Lapka also threw 7 backs for a total of 30 yards in losses and knocked down a pass at the line.

"Myron's one of the keys to our defense," says John Robinson. "He's a proven veteran now, but he must keep improving. If he does, he can be an excellent tackle. He's very physical and very good at pursuit."

Redshirted in 1976, Lapka appeared in one game as a 1975 freshman. He came to USC from Chatsworth High, where he was a first team All-Los Angeles City selection at defensive tackle in 1973 and second team All-City in 1974. He also played some fullback, had a 50-yard run, and played for the North in the 1975 Shrine All-Star Game.

Myron says he enjoys fishing and skiing and other outdoor sports.

(69) STEVE MOYER — 6-7, 270, 20, Jr.

John Robinson happily says USC in 1978 recruited "the finest group of defensive linemen in America." The group includes five freshmen and JC transfer Steve Moyer.

Moyer, a fall transfer, started at defensive tackle for two years at Grossmont College, where his coach, Jack Miyamoto, said he was an excellent player, not only because of his size, but also because of his great agility. "He also worked as hard or harder than anyone else on the team," said Miyamoto.

Moyer played high school football at El Capitan in Lakeside (near San Diego).

(72) RAY PETERS — 6-2, 225, 22, Sr.

Listed as No. 2 nose guard behind Rich Dimler going into the fall, Peters sat out last season. He was a non-letterman squad member at both nose guard and tackle in 1975 (playing 19 minutes) and in 1976, playing just 4 minutes before tearing ligaments in his right knee and undergoing surgery, which cost him the rest of the year. He had one tackle for an eight-yard loss before the 1976 injury.

"Here's a guy who's had two knee operations and hardly played, and he won't quit," says John Robinson. "You've got to love a guy with that much determination — and not just because it's football — but because he has the will to stay with something until he achieves his goal.

"I really think he'll help us this season."

A physical education major, Ray also appeared briefly as an offensive tackle in 1974, after coming to USC from St. Francis High in La Canada. As a prep he was named Lineman of the Year on the All-San Gabriel Valley team and was an All-CIF 4-A pick. Away from football, Ray says he's an enthusiastic backpacker.

(63) TY SPERLING — 6-0, 225, 20, So.

A letterman last season, Sperling played 91 minutes at both nose guard and tackle. He made 27 tackles, including 2 for 11 yards in losses. He comes into the fall as one of the two starting tackles, along with Myron Lapka.

"Ty has outstanding speed," says John Robinson, "and is a very good technician, too. His lack of height hurts him sometimes, but his quickness and mobility make up for a lot. In fact, he's the quickest tackle we've had in some time."

Sperling was awarded another year of eligibility by the Pac-8 last spring, because he had been limited to just one game (Iowa) in his freshman year of 1976 by a sprained left shoulder.

Ty was a first team All-Los Angeles City pick as an offensive guard at Banning High in 1975 and a Scholastic Coach All-American. He also played offensive and defensive tackle and was a two-year All-Marine League pick, along with being voted co-captain of the 1975 Banning team that was runner-up for the city championship. For the track team he put the shot 54-4.

Born in San Francisco, Sperling is a public affairs major whose favorite class is history. He's married, his wife's name is Sheryl, and he says he likes to get away from football by relaxing with his wife.

(90) BRAD STREELMAN — 6-5½, 250, 20, Jr.

A spring, 1977 transfer from California's Cerritos Junior College, Streelman came into the fall listed behind Ty Sperling at defensive tackle.

Quick for his size, Streelman started two years at tackle for Cerritos and was chosen first team All-South Coast Conference as a sophomore. He was also "Lineman of the Year" that season at Cerritos.

At Valley Christian High School, Streelman played fullback and defensive tackle and was named first team All-CIF 1-A at tackle in 1975. He also played center for the basketball team, the outfield for the baseball team, and sat on the student council.

A business major, Streelman says his favorite hobby is water skiing.

LINEBACKERS

(54) STEVE BUSICK — 6-4½, 225, 19, So.

Steve played 24 minutes as a non-letterman last season, making 15 tackles, then had surgery on his right shoulder late in the year. He had not yet recovered full mobility during spring practice, but was still listed as a starting inside linebacker — with Dennis Johnson — coming into the fall.

"We have high hopes for Steve," says John Robinson. "His first year was marred by the shoulder injury, but he has excellent size and range for a linebacker and moves to the ball well. With experience, he should develop into a fine player."

On Temple City High School's 1976 team, which won the CIF 3-A title (21-0 over Villa Park in the title game), Busick was the leading tackler. He was named to the All-CIF 3-A first team as a linebacker and also honorable mention All-American by Joe Namath Prep Magazine.

Busick says he loves to spend his free time at the beach and cites as the toughest players he's ever faced "USC's whole offensive line!"

(53) GARRY COBB — 6-2, 215, 21, Sr.

1977 was an injury-riddled season for the USC defense, but Cobb proved invaluable in bailing the Trojans out. All four starting linebackers — including Garry — were injured at one time or other, but he was the only one who never missed a game. Because of the injuries, Cobb started part of the season at outside linebacker and the rest at inside backer. Now he's the full-time starting outside linebacker on the strong side.

He was second on the team in tackles last season with 92, including 2 for losses, broke up 7 passes and returned an interception 30 yards for a touchdown against TCU. He had 10 tackles in four different games (Missouri, TCU, Notre Dame and Oregon) and 9 in two others (Alabama and Oregon State).

"Garry has improved tremendously since last season," says John Robinson. "He's one of the key players on our team. He's very consistent, very efficient, very intelligent, and has become much more aggressive and determined.

"He's a leader, too, and should have an outstanding season."

As a 1976 sophomore reserve, Cobb lettered with 24 tackles, including 2 for losses, broke up a pair of passes and intercepted another, despite missing three games with a sprained ankle. He played both inside and outside linebacker. In 1975, Garry was second only to Rich Dimler in minutes played among the freshmen, narrowly missing a letter with 41 minutes. He had a half dozen tackles.

Born in Carthage, N.C., Cobb was an All-State linebacker and flanker at Stamford High School in Stamford, Conn. and recalls fondly the Thanksgiving Day game that he caught two TD passes for his state championship team that finished 12-0. He was also a star forward in basketball and an outfielder for the baseball team, and was co-captain in all three sports.

You can't convince him basketball is a non-violent game. Trying to keep the ball in bounds once, he ran straight into the gym wall and knocked himself out.

A sociology major, Cobb is married — his wife's name is Gwendolyn — and he has a baby daughter (Allie). He says his favorite pastime, "is relaxing with my wife and daughter." Garry also has a fond respect for sports history. "My favorite teams," he says, "were Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packers, because they were such consistent winners."

(84) JEFF HOUGHTON — 6-1, 209, 21, Jr.

A non-letterman, Houghton played 23 minutes at inside linebacker last season, making 5 tackles. He was redshirted in 1976 and played briefly as a freshman in 1975.

At Foothill High School in Bakersfield, Calif., Houghton made the 1974 Scholastic Coach All-American team, was Bakersfield's 1974 Lineman of the Year and was All-City two years.

A geology major, Jeff is married — his wife's name is Lou Ann — and he loves to fish and hike. His most exciting moment in sports, he says, "was playing in the Bluebonnet Bowl." He made two tackles in the game as a reserve.

(56) DENNIS JOHNSON — 6-4, 230, 20, Jr.

For a while in the spring of 1977 USC's coaches called Dennis Johnson by another name — "Dennis Frankenstein" — because he was big, but clumsy. But the improvement by the fall of 1977 was dramatic.

The inside linebacker who had played 17 minutes as a 1976 freshman, became the Trojans' leading tackler as a starter in 1977. And Dennis not only brought down 105 runners, he also broke up 5 passes, recovered a fumble, made a pair of tackles for losses and called defensive signals when senior Clay Matthews was injured.

"Johnson has ideal size for a linebacker and great range," says John Robinson. "If he makes the improvement this season he did last season he'll be one of the best linebackers in the country."

Johnson made 15 tackles against Missouri in 1977, 13 in the big win over UCLA, 13 against Washington State, and 12 against Texas A&M (Bluebonnet Bowl) and Oregon State. He led the Trojans in tackles in five games.

Dennis was fast enough in high school at Flint Northwestern in Flint, Mich., to play wide receiver and tight end, as well at linebacker, and catch 23 passes for 468 yards (20.3 average) as a senior and 27 for 367 yards (15.1 average) as a junior. He snagged 5 TD passes as a senior. He was a Scholastic Coach honorable mention All-American pick and All-State in Michigan.

There was an embarrassing moment in high school, however. Johnson recalls with chagrin the day he broke into the open on an end-around play, cut to the sideline and dropped the ball.

He's a speech major now and enjoys playing basketball, baseball and chess. He has three older brothers and three older sisters and, remarkably, Dennis is the only athlete in the family. "I'm the youngest, the biggest and the baddest," he says.

Why did he come to USC all the way from Michigan?

"Ever since I was a little kid and saw O.J. Simpson on television, I knew I wanted to play here," he says. "This was one of my childhood dreams."

(58) MIKE McDONALD — 6-2, 220, 20, Jr.

Mike has been a reserve inside linebacker his two seasons at USC, but lettered both years, playing mostly on the kicking teams — and that includes snapping for Trojan punters. He made 16 tackles as a sophomore and recovered a pair of fumbles, after getting in on 3 tackles and recovering one fumble as a freshman.

McDonald will never forget his first Trojan game as a 1976 freshman. On his first college play he snapped the ball over punter Glen Walker's head to set up a Missouri touchdown and start USC off to a loss in John Robinson's first game as a head coach.

"He came off the field crying, and I told him that's okay, because I was crying, too," Robinson quipped later.

At John Burroughs High in Burbank, McDonald was an All-CIF 3-A first team selection as a linebacker and was named Co-Defensive Player of the Year in the Foothill League and Lineman of the Year in the Glendale-Burbank area.

(57) LARRY McGREW — 6-5, 225, 21, Jr.

Going into spring practice, John Robinson was worried about the outside linebacker position on the weak side. He didn't know who would play there. After spring drills he was much relieved. The performance of McGrew and Charlie Moses was among the highlights of the spring.

"McGrew made dramatic improvement, and I consider him and Charlie Moses as co-starters," says Robinson. "Larry's an aggressive, confident player who has great range, height and mobility. If his improvement continues the next two years, he'll be a contender for national honors."

Larry played 71 minutes as a letterman reserve linebacker last season, making 13 tackles, including 2 for 12 yards in losses. He transferred to USC the fall of 1977 from Contra Costa Junior College, where he played outside linebacker in 1975, but sat out the season in 1976, choosing to obtain his JC degree but save a year of eligibility.

At Berkeley High School, McGrew started at both tight end and linebacker and was twice an All-Alameda County Athletic League first team selection, along with being chosen on the All-Northern California team. He originally signed a letter of intent to Cal, but opted to attend Contra Costa instead.

Larry says he decided to attend USC, "because of the positive attitude of the coaches, players and other students and the strong support of the alumni."

(82) MARC MITCHELL — 6-3, 215, 19, Jr.

A transfer last spring from Mt. San Antonic Junior College, Mitchell impressed coaches as an outside linebacking candidate, before undergoing surgery for torn knee ligaments after about a week. The coaches feel he has a bright future, although slow recovery from leg surgery could hamper him this fall.

Marc played defensive tackle for two years at Mt. Sac, making 90 tackles as a sophomore, including 15 sacks. He also intercepted a pair of passes and blocked two kicks. He was a first team All-South Coast Conference selection and has good speed and agility.

At Pomona High School, Mitchell also played defensive tackle and won All-San Antonio League and All-Pomona Valley honors. He says he enjoys listening to music and "just being with good friends" in his free time.

(55) CHARLIE MOSES — 6-3, 215, 22, Sr.

A spring, 1977 transfer from Chaffey Junior College, Moses played 24 minutes as a non-letterman reserve linebacker last season. He made 7 tackles, including one for a five-yard loss. But he goes into fall as co-starter at weakside outside linebacker with Larry McGrew.

"Charlie had a great spring," says John Robinson, "and it's a shame he's a senior, because he's really just beginning his career. He brings an attacking, pursuing attitude to our defense. He's one tough, physical player."

Defensive coordinator Don Lindsey agrees.

"Charlie," says Lindsey, "will chase you all over the field to hit you."

At Chaffey JC, Moses played outside linebacker for two years and was named All-Mission Conference first team as a sophomore. He made 124 tackles in 10 games, 82 of them unassisted, and also recovered 3 fumbles, intercepted a pass and sacked quarterbacks 11 times. He came to Chaffey from Ontario High School, where he also played outside linebacker.

A sociology major, Moses says graduated Trojan fullback Mosi Tatupu is the toughest player he's ever faced.

(81) ERIC SCOGGINS — 6-3½, 220, 19, So.

One of three outstanding freshmen defensive backs who all lettered last season — Dennis Smith and Ron Lott were the others — Scoggins finds himself at a new position with a great future. He played as a 195-pound defensive back, and now he's a 220-pound outside linebacker, backing up Garry Cobb.

"Eric is still learning his new position, but he made rapid progress at the end of spring practice," says John Robinson. "He's quick and alert, and it's just a matter of time until he's an outstanding linebacker."

Scoggins played 52 minutes to earn his letter last fall, making 11 tackles, breaking up a pass and recovering a fumble. He came to USC after a brilliant career at Inglewood High School, where he started at defensive back two years and started at quarterback for three.

He was an All-CIF 3-A first team pick on defense as a senior and honorable mention All-American choice on the Joe Namath Magazine team, intercepting 7 passes and making 54 tackles. At quarterback he rushed for 753 yards on 157 carries, scored 4 touchdowns and completed 51 of 98 passes (52%) for 912 yards and 10 more scores. He was also the team captain and punter (38-yard average) and was named Ocean League Player of the Year.

In his spare time, Scoggins was a two-year varsity starter in basketball and student body vice president. He's a business major now at USC and enjoys bowling and listening to music when he's away from football. He's been nicknamed "Wimpie," because of his appetite for hamburgers.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

(47) LARRY BRAZIEL — 5-11, 188, 24, Sr.

A part-time starter in 1977 — he started six games at right cornerback — Braziel goes into fall as the starting left corner.

"Larry has developed into one of the premier corners in the Pac-10," says John Robinson. "He's got great speed at 4.48 in the 40, great determination, and he's an outstanding pro prospect."

Braziel was No. 2 in the Trojan secondary in tackles last season with 44, including 1 for a loss, and led the defensive backs in passes broken up with 14. He also intercepted 2 passes and enabled the Trojans to keep a 3-0 halftime lead over Alabama by blocking a field goal with a minute left in the half. He had a 30-yard interception return against Stanford All-American quarterback Guy Benjamin.

Larry transferred to USC from Compton Junior College in spring, 1975, but suffered torn knee cartilage after a week of drills, had surgery and was redshirted that fall. At Compton he was twice named first team All-Western State Conference. As a sophomore he was also named the team's MVP and captain.

Born in Fort Worth, Texas, Braziel played both tailback and defensive back at Dunbar High in Fort Worth, intercepting 3 passes in one of his games. He also remembers a day he tackled an opposing player so hard he was dazed and joined the other team's huddle without realizing it.

A speech major, Larry says he's a Christian who likes to participate in church activities and read the Bible in his spare time.

Who's his favorite sports hero? "Myself," he says. "I admire myself for some of the things I go through to play football."

(30) WILLIE CRAWFORD — 5-11, 180, 23, Sr.

The starting rover in 1977, his first year at USC, Willie goes into fall listed as co-starter at rover with Ron Lott. Last season Crawford made 42 tackles, including 2 for 7 yards in losses, broke up 5 passes and intercepted another against Oregon State.

"Willie is an inspirational, enthusiastic guy whose attitude is contagious," says John Robinson. "If our defense is to be successful this season, his personality must permeate our team. He's liked and admired by everyone, and the others consider him a leader.

"He's a very determined, aggressive player who's a tremendous hitter."

Crawford was a 1976 first team JC All-American at City College of San Francisco, transferring to USC the next spring. He had a spectacular career as a safety at San Francisco, making 219 tackles in his two seasons, intercepting 12 passes, recovering 6 fumbles and blocking 4 kicks. In 1975 he led the state in interceptions with 9.

In 1976 Crawford was also first team All-State and San Francisco team captain. In 1975 he was honorable mention All-State and honorable mention All-American and both seasons was named Golden Gate Conference Outstanding Defensive Back and CCSF's most valuable player.

Three times in his career Crawford was picked as Northern California JC Player of the Week, including a game against San Jose JC in 1976 when he made 22 tackles, recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass.

Willie also started two years at shortstop for San Francisco's baseball team, batting .370 in 1976. He played shortstop and safety at Mission High in San Francisco, too, winning All-City honors in both sports.

A physical education major, Crawford says he admires another hard hitter, Jack Tatum of the Oakland Raiders. He says he'll never forget his first USC game — against Missouri. "I walked into that stadium and saw 65,000 people packed in there and it almost scared me to death," he remembers.

A funny thing happened to him in the Cal game last year. "The tight end caught a pass coming across the middle," he said, "and I came up fast to tackle him. I crashed into what I thought was the Cal receiver, but instead, I had made a perfect tackle on one of my teammates."

(11) CARTER HARTWIG — 6-0, 205, 22, Sr.

In 1977, Hartwig started four games at right cornerback and two at rover, made 28 tackles and recovered a fumble. He's considered one of three starting Trojan cornerbacks now with Larry Braziel and Tim Lavender.

Carter also lettered as a sophomore in 1976, playing 77 minutes for the Trojans' 11-1 team, making a dozen tackles and intercepting 2 passes for 15 yards.

"Hartwig has developed into a very good defensive back," says John Robinson. "He has excellent speed — 4.48 in the 40 — and good size at 200 pounds, and now he's got the experience."

Carter began his Trojan career as a wide receiver, seeing action there briefly as a 1975 freshman. He was a Scholastic Coach Magazine All-American at split end and defensive back in 1974 and was twice named all-conference at Central Union High in Fresno.

In a playoff game against Shafter as a high school junior he caught 3 touchdown passes and also had a 96-yard catch-and-run in another game. In the spring, he high jumped 6-6 and ran a 21.9 220 for the track team.

A public administration major at USC, Hartwig says he enjoys water skiing and listening to jazz in his spare time.

(48) TIM LAVENDER — 6-4, 190, 22, Sr.

Tim Lavender was one of the most improved Trojans on the squad in spring practice.

"Tim is very determined and has refined his skills continually since he's been here," says John Robinson. "I've been very impressed with his commitment. He's got outstanding size and very good speed and is ready to have a good year for us and look forward to a bright pro future. He's one of three players we consider starting corners."

The brother of Joe Lavender of the Washington Redskins, Tim played 24 minutes as a non-letterman last season, making 12 tackles and breaking up a pass. He was redshirted in 1976.

A spring, 1976 transfer, Lavender played two years at San Diego City College, making first team All-Mission Conference safety in 1975 as a sophomore. He returned 4 interceptions for 172 yards that season, including a school-record 96-yard sprint for a TD against Santa Barbara City College. He broke up 4 other passes and made 38 tackles. He also played basketball as a freshman and was 20th leading JC rebounder in the state.

At Central Union High near San Diego, Lavender won All-Desert Valley League honors as a defensive back and played for the basketball team.

A political science major, Lavendar remembers a funny incident in a high school game. "It was raining hard near the end of the game," he recalls, "and the quarterback from Rancho High dropped back to pass. His receivers all slipped and fell in the mud, all of us defensive backs fell, too, and when the quarterback tried to throw anyway, it slipped out of his hand."

(42) RONNIE LOTT — 6-2, 200, 19, So.

One of three freshmen defensive backs to letter in 1977 — Dennis Smith and Eric Scoggins were the others — Lott is already listed as co-starter at rover with senior Willie Crawford. He made 27 tackles in 51 minutes last season — many as the first man down on kicking teams — broke up 5 passes and recovered a fumble.

"Ron Lott is a great athlete," says John Robinson. "Physically, he's the ideal defensive back. He's also very competitive, very tough and very smart. And if you wiggle just a little bit, he'll hit you."

Lott came to USC from Eisenhower High School, where he was a varsity letterman for three years in football, basketball and baseball. In football he made All-Citrus Belt League at three different positions — defensive back, quarterback and wide receiver and was a unanimous All-American (Parade, Coach & Athlete, Scholastic Coach) defensive back in 1976. He was also Citrus Belt League Player of the Year, and selected to play in the Shrine All-Star game.

As a junior, Ron caught 43 passes for 890 yards as a wide receiver, and as a senior quarterback he completed 50 of 101 passes for 794 yards and rushed for 947 more. On defense he intercepted a total of 21 passes in three years.

In basketball he was an All-Citrus Belt League choice at guard three years and in baseball an all-league pick twice at shortstop.

Now Ronnie gets a chance to relax, and he does it by listening to soft music. He came to USC, he says, "because of the respect all the players have for each other."

(43) KENNEY MOORE — 6-0, 183, 20, So.

One of the most honored players in Los Angeles City history, Kenney goes into fall listed just behind Dennis Smith at safety, after being redshirted in 1977. He's the brother of ex-Trojan fullback and tailback Manfred Moore.

"Kenney is extremely competitive and very physical with natural instincts for the game," says John Robinson. "He should play an important role on our team this season and has a bright future here."

As a freshman, Kenney appeared in three games, seeing six minutes of action. But at San Fernando High in 1974 and 1975 he was only the second player in history to twice be named Los Angeles City Player of the Year (the other was ex-Trojan fullback Charlie Evans in 1965 and 66). In 1974 Moore was named Player of the Year as only the fourth junior to ever be so honored, and as a senior he shared the award with San Fernando and current USC teammates Charles White and Kevin Williams.

Kenney quarterbacked San Fernando to back-to-back City championships in 1974 and 1975 and directed the Wishbone-powered Tigers to a 32-5 three-year record. He accounted for 4,085 yards in total offense, ran for 19 touchdowns and passed for 27 more.

His most productive year was his junior season when he ran for 781 yards and 11 TD's on 177 carries (4.4 average) and passed for 769 yards and 7 TD's. Hampered by a jammed toe as a senior, he still ran for 624 yards and passed for 616.

Moore was a full-time two-way player in high school and was first team All-City at quarterback as a junior and first team All-City as a defensive back as a senior. In 1975 he was also picked on the Parade and Coach & Athlete All-American teams.

A cinema major, Kenney says he enjoys watching old movies and admires George Atkinson of Oakland "for his aggressive play."

(33) DAN MOROVICK — 6-2, 195, 21, Jr.

The Co-CIF 4-A (large schools) Player of the Year at quarterback in 1974, Morovick never played at that position for USC — except in practice. Late last fall he asked to move to defense to get a chance to play, and so he goes into fall as a reserve rover.

At St. John Bosco High, Morovick led his team into the 1974 CIF finals by throwing for 1,883 yards on 121 completions in 210 attempts (57.6%). He had 21 touchdown passes, did all the kicking off for his team and was 37 for 51 in kicking conversions. He made the Scholastic Coach All-American team that season.

In one winning playoff game he threw 4 touchdown passes, and to get into the playoffs he fired a scoring pass with two seconds left to win another game, 13-11. Dan also played forward for the basketball team, caught for the baseball team and ran the hurdles in track.

At USC Morovick is a marketing major who likes to spend much of his free time with his girl friend, Lisa.

(49) DENNIS SMITH — 6-3, 200, 19, So.

This is how good an athlete Dennis Smith is:

He's a former California state prep high jump champion, but he hadn't jumped in almost a year when John Robinson excused him from football practice for two days and sent him to the track team last spring. After working out twice, Dennis was thrown into the pressure-packed USC-UCLA meet — and promptly cleared 7 feet to get second as USC won. He went on to jump 7 feet again for third in the Pac-8 championships, critical points, as the Trojans won by only 7 overall.

In football, Smith is now the starting safety, replacing graduated All-American Dennis Thurman. As a freshman he played 55 minutes to letter, made half a dozen tackles and intercepted 2 passes against TCU, returning one of them 13 yards.

"Dennis has unlimited potential," says John Robinson. "His size, speed and great leaping ability give him great range as a safetyman, but perhaps his most outstanding quality is his ability to hit. If a quarterback takes off and runs, he'll come up and wallop him."

Smith went to the same high school as Thurman — Santa Monica — and was named 1976 Co-CIF 4-A (large schools) Player of the Year (with Randy Hertel). He also made the Coach & Athlete, Scholastic Coach and Joe Namath Magazine All-American teams, playing both defensive back and wide receiver.

As a senior Dennis had 33 catches for 777 yards, a 23.5 average and three interceptions — as teams refused to throw in his area. He was Santa Monica's third-leading tackler, although he played only about three quarters of the season in the secondary. As a junior Smith was a second team All-CIF 4-A pick when he intercepted 9 passes. He was later selected to play in the Shrine All-Star Game.

In the spring of 1977 he won the California state high jump title by soaring 7-2 to break the mark held by Dwight Stones.

Dennis says he relaxes now by listening to music and recalls his most exciting moment in sports so far as that TCU game last fall "when I got my first interception as a Trojan." Asked to think of the toughest player he's faced, he replied "Unknown." His teammates call him "Kojac."

(23) HERB WARD — 5-10, 190, 21, Jr.

Redshirted in 1977, Ward is a backup cornerback, but he has excellent potential. He transferred to USC in the spring of 1977 with fellow San Francisco City College defensive back Willie Crawford.

A 4.5 40-yard dash man, Herb was an explosive punt returner at San Francisco, leading the Golden Gate Conference with 324 yards on only 15 runbacks (21.6 average) in 1976. He ran three back for touchdowns in his two-year career, including an 85-yarder against San Jose City College, and also took two interceptions back for scores.

In two seasons Ward totaled 88 tackles, 6 interceptions, 16 pass deflections and recovered 2 fumbles. He was a first team All-Golden Gate Conference pick in 1976.

Herb also placed sixth in California in the JC decathlon in 1975, high jumped 6-10, ran a 9.8 100 at Balboa High School and played basketball in both high school and junior college.

A business administration major, he says he admires Muhammad Ali, "not only because I like the way he talks, but because he can back it up."

OUTLAND SALUTE

Ron Yary — 1967

Ron Yary is the only USC player to win the Outland Trophy, "the Heisman Trophy for linemen." The Outland award goes to the outstanding lineman in the nation and is selected by the Football Writers Association of America.

Yary was a two-time consensus All-American offensive tackle for the Trojans and was a unanimous All-American pick in 1967 when he won the Outland. The first player selected in the 1968 pro draft, he is now a perennial All-Pro with the Minnesota Vikings.

HEISMAN SALUTE

Mike Garrett — 1965

Mike Garrett, USC's first Heisman Trophy winner — and only the second on the West Coast — set an NCAA career rushing record (since broken) by running for 3,221 yards in his three-year career.

The popular Garrett won the Heisman over such outstanding 1965 collegians as Bob Griese, Floyd Little, Tommy Nobis, Jim Grabowski, Donny Anderson and Howard Twilly.

Garrett and Anthony Davis are the only players to lead USC in rushing for three straight years. Mike later starred for the Kansas City Chiefs and San Diego Chargers.

During the regular 1968 season O.J. established an NCAA record for yards rushing — 1709 — in a single season (since bettered). He equaled or bettered no less than 13 USC records.

Simpson also holds the NFL single season rushing record of 2,003 yards set in 1973 and goes into the 1978 season as the second leading NFL career rusher behind Jim Brown.

THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The University of Southern California is the oldest major independent non-sectarian coeducational university in the West. Its diversity of good programs has marked it as one of the most distinguished universities in the world.

Nearly 100 years ago the University came into being with 53 students who attended classes in a single, wooden building that had been constructed, at a cost of $5,060, on land donated by a Catholic, a Jew, and a Protestant. A thousand persons, who represented 10% of the population of Los Angeles, were present for the laying of the cornerstone on September 4, 1880.

The University's Toward Century II program seeks $265 million to help meet USC's educational goals. As an independent institution dependent on private support, many worthwhile opportunities for philanthropy exist at the University of Southern California.

* USC, one of only 23 private leading research universities in the United States, is a member of the Association of American Universities, the most esteemed organization of academic institutions.
* Enrollment stands at 25,000, including 11,700 full-time undergraduates; 4,930 full-time graduate or professional students; 2,500 part-time undergraduates; 5,480 part-time graduate or professional students.
* USC provides southern California with a significant portion of its professionals: 48% of the judges and 40% of the attorneys in Los Angeles County are USC graduates; more than 2,100 physicians, 8,500 engineers, 50% of the pharmacists, 60% of the social workers, dentists and school administrators in southern California earned their degrees at USC.

- Sponsored research and training programs, totaled more than $50 million last year.
- USC has a full-time faculty of 1,535.
- Included among USC's distinguished alumni are astronauts Neil Armstrong, Alan Bean, James Lovell, and Walter Schirra; Federal Commissioner of Education Ernest L. Boyer; columnist Art Buchwald; U.S. Representative Yvonne Braithwaite Burke; Metropolitan Opera star Marilyn Horne; artist Mary Corita Kent; author Irving Stone; actress Marlo Thomas; symphony conductor Michael Tilson Thomas; actor John Wayne; former CBS-TV Network President Robert D. Wood.

DR. JOHN R. HUBBARD
University President

The University of Southern California is preparing to enter its second century of service in 1980 under the leadership of Dr. John R. Hubbard, the University's eighth president. He has guided USC's growth and development since 1970. In 1976 he launched the Toward Century II program, a $265,340,000 project designed to prepare the University for its second century as a model of academic excellence.

Dr. Hubbard, a historian, became USC's chief executive officer Aug. 3, 1970. He had previously been vice president and provost of the University. He succeeded Dr. Norman Topping, who is now chancellor. Dr. Hubbard came to USC after four years as chief education advisor for the U.S. Agency for International Development in India. He was dean and professor of European history at Newcomb College of Tulane University in New Orleans before going to India.

He also taught at Louisiana State University, Yale University and his alma mater, the University of Texas, where he earned three degrees in history between 1938 and 1950. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

As a specialist in modern British and European history, the USC president remains an active teacher conducting a weekly seminar on British diplomatic history.

Dr. Hubbard, born in Belton, Texas, served five years in World War II as a naval aviator. He came out of the Navy as a lieutenant commander, having been a flight instructor and patrol plane commander with the Atlantic and Pacific fleets. He won the Distinguished Flying Cross and four Air Medals.

Dr. and Mrs. Hubbard, the former Lucille Luckett, live in San Marino. The Hubbards have three daughters: Elisa, who earned her B.A. degree from the University of California, Berkeley, in 1973 and her master's degree in international relations from USC; Melisse, who earned bachelor's and master's degrees in social work from USC; and Kristin, a 1977 graduate of Stanford University, where she majored in history.

Dr. Hubbard is a trustee of both the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities and Scholarships for Children of American Military Personnel. He is a member of the Board of Directors of Community Television of Southern California (KCET-TV) and of the Board of Governors for the Performing Arts Council at the Music Center. He is a member of the American Historical Association, Organization of American Historians, Southern Historical Association, Anglo-American Historical Society and the Conference on British Studies, the Commission on Federal Relations of the American Council on Education and the Council on Federal Relations of the Association of American Universities.

DR. NORMAN TOPPING

University Chancellor

After twelve distinguished years as the seventh president of USC, Dr. Norman Topping announced his early retirement for reasons of health in spring, 1970.

Following the selection of Dr. John R. Hubbard to succeed Dr. Topping, the USC Board of Trustees invited the popular former President to remain on campus, serving in the post of University Chancellor. Dr. Topping accepted, and thus continues to serve his alma mater. He is the first alumnus to be USC's Chancellor.

The second alumnus to be President of the oldest major coeducational non-sectarian university in the West, Dr. Topping became USC's chief executive officer on Sept. 1, 1958.

He was graduated from USC in 1933 with a bachelor of arts degree and in 1936 with the degree of doctor of medicine.

He was the chief architect of USC's Master Plan for enterprise and excellence in education, announced in 1961 after a two-year study by trustees, administrators and faculty members.

Many distinguished men of learning were attracted to USC during his Presidency and more than $235 million was given to the University, mostly from private sources, for USC's Master Plan, original goal of which was $106 million.

Dr. Topping came to the USC Presidency after a distinguished 16-year career with the U.S. Public Health Service, climaxed by his appointment as an Assistant Surgeon General and associate director of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md.

He also was vice president for medical affairs at the University of Pennsylvania six years immediately prior to returning to USC.

Dr. Topping developed the typhus vaccine used in World War II by more than 15,000,000 U.S., Canadian and British servicemen. The vaccine still is in use. Dr. Topping received the Bailey K. Ashford Award in 1943 and the U.S. Typhus Commission Medal in 1945.

Dr. Topping served as President of the Southern California Rapid Transit District for two years, from 1971-73. He is a director of Litton Industries, Getty Oil Co., H.F. Ahmanson & Company, and Transamerica Mutual Funds.

USC: NO. 1 IN THE NFL

USC has the most players in the National Football League, and no other university is even close.

Last season there were 45 ex-Trojans on NFL rosters. Next best was Colorado with 30. Going into the 1978 season USC had 60 players on pro teams, including 12 rookies and three who were on the injured list last year.

USC players are on the rosters of 25 NFL teams.

The bulk of Trojan pros came from the two most talented classes in collegiate football history. Those are the classes of 1975 (their last season was 1974) and 1977 (1976 season).

Both these classes had 14 players drafted, an all-time NFL record.
